ICKES SCORES '60 FAMILIES,' DRAWS RETORT

Secretary Contends Masses and Wealth Must Engage In 'Finish Fight.'

CONGRESSMEN PROTEST

Lawmakers In Both Parties Hit 'Heckling' of U. S. Business In Address.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)— President Roosevelt today used the words of Theodore Roosevelt to explain that administration attacks on big business are aimed only at certain "malefactors of great wealth" and not at all men of great wealth.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary Ickes' contention that a finish fight must take place between America's millions and an asserted plutocracy of "60 families" drew quick rebuttal today from several members of congress.

The interior secretary said in a radio address last night that "Economic power in this country does not rest in the mass of the people as it must if a democracy is to endure."

"Here in America," he said "it is the old struggle between the power of money and the power of the Democratic instinct.

Breaks Into Open.

"In the last few months this irreconcilable conflict, long growing in our history, has come into the open as never before, has taken a form and intensity which makes it clear that it must be fought through to a finish—until plutocracy or democracy, until America's 60 families or America's 120,000,000 people—win."

Some legislators expressed agreement with Ickes' views, but others in both major parties, commenting on his speech, called for greater co-operation between government and business.

The address followed two denunciations of "big business" by Robert H. Jackson, head of the justice department's anti-trust division, who with Ickes was a guest on President Roosevelt's recent fishing trip off the Florida coast.

One cabinet member, after a White House meeting yesterday, said the message—unless changed during the week-end—would be plainly worried but would be more temperate toward business than the Ickes and Jackson speeches.

Wants Labor Criticism.

The speech brought the comment from Senator Lorgan (D-Ky), often an ardent Roosevelt supporter, that if the administration is to attack "big business," it also should turn attention to some labor practices.

Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind), who repeatedly has urged co-operation between government and business, expressed regret that "additional barriers are raised between government and private industry."

Year-End Edition Gives Thorough Review of 1937

It has long been a custom among newspapers, as well as among individuals, to look back over a dying year when Dec. 31 comes around, to see what happened.

The News-Journal's year-end edition today does that in a number of ways. On this page, for instance, there is a selection of the "ten best" Mansfield stories, by Joseph E. Kuebler, city editor. Virgil A. Stanfield, staff member, writes a story on the industrial and business outlook for 1938.

On Page 2, there's a story on what happened to the nation's farms in 1937, and a cartooned review of important world happenings.

On Page 12, a bit of fun, concerning things that happened in 1937 that gave people a laugh, even if they weren't important.

No Paper Saturday

In observance of New Year day, The News-Journal will follow its usual custom and will publish no editions Saturday.

Gets New Post

WILLIAM K. MACKEY

MACKEY NAMED PAROLE AGENT

O. S. R. Chaplain Appointed to $3,600 Post, Aid to Ohio Parole Chief.

William K. Mackey, 36, for seven years chaplain at the Mansfield Reformatory, has been appointed general parole agent for the state of Ohio, it was learned here today.

Mackey will assume his new duties Monday, with headquarters in Columbus, but will continue to spend part of his time at the Reformatory here, performing the duties of chaplain until a successor can be named.

Mackey's appointment to the new post came from Charles L. Haslop, Newark, supervisor of the division of parole and investigation, with the approval of Governor Martin L. Davey and Welfare Director Margaret Allman. Haslop, a former member of the state parole board, resigned that position Oct. 15 to accept his present post.

In his new position, Mackey will be Haslop's assistant. His work will take him to all of Ohio's penal institutions, and he will have charge of making preparole arrangements for prisoners and inmates who have been granted releases. He will also instruct all prisoners on required parole behavior before they leave institutions. Part of the division's work, Mackey explained today, is to bring about better compliance with parole regulations in order to improve the Ohio parole system.

As chaplain at the reformatory, Mackey has been familiar with the parole system, and has worked with Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke and his predecessor, Thomas Jenkins, in close co-operation with the parole board. His duties there call for him to interview each new inmate received, and he also interviews daily scores of inmates in cases of reformatory rule violations.

Mackey's new post comes to him as a promotional one, under civil service. The annual salary is $3,600.

DEMS CAUCUS

Nominate Five For Important City Council Posts.

At a Democratic caucus at the home of Councilman Lester D. Hunter last night, five persons were selected to fill important positions in the new city council meeting in first formal session of 1938, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Those named and the positions that they will fill are: Councilman George L. Berg, president pro-tem of council, and member of the finance committee; William J. Beer, jr., clerk of council; Councilman Fred Miller, chairman and Councilman C. N. Shultz, members of the finance committee, the most important of the eleven standing comittees.

Shultz only Republican member of those named has served on the finance committee for the past six years.

Voting will be held Tuesday night but no opposition is expected since the Democrats with five members hold the majority in council.

'37 'Satisfactory Year' for Business, Industry; Uncertainty Clouds New Year

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

Mansfield business and industrial leaders surveyed 1937 today and called it satisfactory despite a marked recession in the last quarter, but most of them looked to the new year with an optimism clouded with uncertainty.

The city's commercial interests shared the fortunes of the nation in a spectacular rise to record figures during the late spring and early summer months, only to see the gains nullified by a sharp decline as the year closed.

Hit Governmental Interference.

In distinct contrast to the steady upswing that marked the beginning of 1937, the present picture is one of declining industrial activity, with the majority of financial and industrial leaders blaming governmental interference for the drop.

Forecasts for the new year are guarded and restrained, some predicting a brighter picture by the end of three months and others holding little hope for recovery signs until mid-summer, if then. A few said it will require changes in government legislation to allow ailing industries to cure themselves.

Bank Clearings Lead Way.

Bank clearings showed the greatest gain of any of the city's barometers, with an increase of more than $21,000,000 over last year's figures reported by Dale Kaylor, secretary of the Clearing House association. The total, amounting to approximately $101,700,000, is the highest since 1929 and $8,000,000 less than that year's all-time high.

Building figures, which usually parallel the ups and downs of business, dropped off about $700,000 this year as compared with last year's total, but still topped the 1929 aggregate by a small margin.

The 1936 construction was boosted to an all-time mark by the $750,000 office building at the Westinghouse plant, one of the city's outstanding building projects in recent years.

Construction of residences was centered this year in the southwest section of the city, with a number of homes of the better class erected in that area.

Industrial heads proved that they have faith in the city's future by contracting for additions and improvements totaling nearly $500,000 during the year. Heading the list was a $250,000 program announced two weeks ago by the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company.

Other major industrial projects of the year included a $50,000 expansion program for the Mansfield Telephone company, the expenditure of $90,000 by the Tappan Stove company for modern equipment and a building addition, and $30,000 at the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company for remodeling and new equipment.

While outside the construction field, one of the important indicators of the city's progress during 1937 was the replacing of the historic street car system with motor buses. The Mansfield Rapid Transit company, which operates the city's transportation system, spent $20,000 in the last half of the year for new buses.

The city's postal receipts, accelerated by record Christmas mailing, promised to establish a new mark, according to Postmaster Herman E. Homberger. Monthly figures for 1937 were consistently ahead of those for the same months last year.

$80,000 In Bonuses.

Cash bonuses distributed by the city's industrial plants at Christmas were fewer this year than in 1936, but workers nevertheless were rewarded and two leading firms—Westinghouse and the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company—gave their employes a total of $80,000.

While the holiday trade volume in Mansfield is expected to show a slight decline from last year, merchants were optimistic about the 1938 prospects, V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants association, reported.

"The retailers realize, however," Lodde said, "that much depends on the increase in operation of our local manufacturing plants."

The outlook for 1938 as expressed by heads of the city's industries are:

W. G. Moore, president of the Humphryes Manufacturing company: "Our business for the first nine months this year was satisfactory, but in November we experienced the sharpest falling off in volume in our history. There are so many uncertainties ahead that it is impossible to forecast the future with any confidence. We feel that the present so-called recession has already reached serious proportions and that it is quite unlikely that business will be reasonably good before next summer, if then.

G. L. Draffan, executive vice president of Ohio Brass company: "Despite the unwelcome business recession of the past five months, 1937 has been a very satisfactory year for the Ohio Brass company.

"What the new year will bring forth is something which few seem able to predict with confidence. Prospects for the first three months of 1938 are admittedly none too bright, but if statisticians are correct, and if business men, especially the utilities, are not bound too tightly by governmental regulations, there is every reason to believe that the remainder of the year will produce an increasingly large volume of sales."

A. E. Allen, vice president in charge of merchandising activities for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company: "The year 1937 which is just coming to its close has been for the electrical industry a rather queer combination of great prosperity for the first six months and increasingly hard going for the last six months. The year as a whole has averaged considerably better than 1936 and, of course, had the prosperity we enjoyed during the early months continued, it would have been a record-breaking period. However, along with practically all industry, a very sharp decline in purchasing commenced in July and the usual fall pick-up and Christmas buying have been considerably below average

"We are hopeful that the electrical merchandising business will not decline as rapidly or to the same extent as many other industries due to the fact that it is a consumer demand business which always shows considerably more resistance during dull periods than many other industries. Our Mansfield plant has been fortunate in experiencing less of a reduction in productive labor than many other types of plants and we

Will '38 See Industrial Graf Turn Upward Again?

Industrial activity figures last spring were the best since 1929. But they soon headed downward. By autumn, government and business were talking about the recession and how to curb it. The chart above shows what has happened to industrial activity since boom days. Now the consensus of business opinion seems to be that the recession will remain through the early part of 1938, but that the spring ought to see the graph turning slowly upward, with more marked improvement by the middle of the year.

G-MEN CHECK WEIRD DRAMA ON HIGH SEAS

Bodies Dumped Overboard By Starving Survivors Who Painted SOS on Sail.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Murder, piracy and retribution on the high seas—a stranger-than-fiction story written with the blood of two men—was unfolded to government agents early today by six haggard survivors of a cruise on the schooner yacht Aafje.

Dwight L. Faulding, 49, Santa Barbara hotel man and the Aafje's owner, is dead, his bullet-riddled body dumped overboard somewhere off the southern California coast.

Jack Morgan, the man accused of his slaying by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, also is dead. Two youths told Chief FBI Agent John Hanson they threw Morgan into the sea after five terror-stricken days under his mad rule.

3 Ordered Held.

An official statement by Hanson summed up the details of one of the Pacific's strangest sea dramas after hours of questioning the survivors last night. Three were held in technical custody.

The ill-fated cruise was marked by death on the very afternoon the Aafje sailed out of San Pedro Dec. 20, bound for Catalina island 20 miles distant. Aboard, besides Faulding and Morgan, who had chartered the yacht, were Faulding's fiancee, Mrs. Gertrude Turner and her 8-year-old son, Robert; Mrs. Morgan, an expectant mother; her nurse Miss Elsie Bernard; Robert Horne and George Spernak, amateur crewmen.

Faulding, at the helm, heard a terse order. "Get away from that wheel. I'm taking command here."

It was Morgan, emerging from the shadow of the hatch, Hanson said. Faulding started toward his adversary. Three bullets from a revolver poured into the yachtsman's body.

Tossed Into Sea.

Late that night Morgan forced his terrified companions to drop Faulding's body overboard.

"I don't know what came over Jack," Mrs. Morgan told investigators. "He seemed to go crazy. After he killed Faulding he ran the boat with an iron hand and we were in terror."

Five hundred miles southwest of San Pedro, and five days after departure. Horne and Spernak seized an opportunity to attack Morgan.

"Horne and Spernak were working near the wheel of the yacht," Hanson said they told him.

"Horne saw his opportunity. He picked up a marlin spike, hit Morgan over the head, crushing his skull, and with the aid of Spernak, tossed the man overboard.

"They do not know whether he was dead or not."

Hoping to reach the mainland under sails, conserving fuel for the auxiliary engine in event of a storm, the survivors turned back.

On the morning of Dec. 29 one painted an "S O S" on the mainsail. The distress signal was sighted by a navy flier from San Diego, who summoned coast guard aid.

City Ushers In New Year With Gaiety, 'Open House' Parties

Mansfield today was preparing to say "Farewell!—and Hail!" to the Old and the New Year in ways as various and diversified as the tastes of the 40,000 persons who make up the city.

At exactly 12 o'clock tonight when the tick-tock of thousands of clocks seems to say "going—going—gone!" Mansfielders will turn the pages of mental calendars, and 1937 will be gone and in its place there will be 1938. The disappointments, the procrastinations, the victories of the past 12 months will belong to personal histories, and a new set of 12 months will come winging down the corridors of Time.

There will be celebrations ranging from informal parties at private homes to the swankiest of supper dances. Night clubs are booked to the doors, and with the lifting of the curfew on night clubs and tap rooms, merriment will ride throughout the night and into the dawn.

But the program will be fairly well balanced, for if there are celebrators who plan on welcoming the New Year by getting horizontally "plastered", there are more who will take the calendar change in a milder stride, with quiet little gatherings. It is possible that many will even go to bed at an early hour and leave Old Father Time to manage the thing alone.

In sharp contrast to tonight's gala celebrations, the city tomorrow will be silent, with factories, business concerns, and all city and county offices closed.

But tonight the town will be wide open and police plan to be lenient with merrymakers — so long as they behave themselves.

DELAYED AGAIN

Hunt For Plane Victims In Lake Blocked by Waves.

TOLEDO — (AP) — Heavy seas and thick weather today again delayed search for the bodies of Delbert Watkins, 30, of New Plymouth, O., and Albert Anderson, 45, of Sandusky, O., two victims of the plane crash off South Bass island (Put-in-Bay) Wednesday.

The two men and Mrs. Nancy Howard, 42, of Lexington Ky., lost their lives when an Erie Isles Airway, Inc. plane, piloted by William Somogy, 30, of Lorain, O., became lost in a dense fog and plunged into open water.

The body of Mrs. Howard was recovered a few hours later.

Guard Draws Gun as Convicts Attempt to Rush Through Institution Gate.

Two Reformatory inmates who perhaps had ideas about greeting 1938 from the great open spaces outside had their plans go suddenly awry yesterday, when they attempted to escape through the west gate of the institution.

The two were Jack Mayes, 23, and Robert Brewer, 25. Both are from Hamilton county.

Their escape attempt occurred at 3 p. m., just after they had delivered some laundry to the gate, which leads from the main institution to the Reformatory farm, and is used by trusties who work on the farm.

After delivering the laundry, the two inmates attempted to push right on through the gate, but Guard Henry Martin on duty there quickly drew his gun, and held the two at bay until other officers could arrive on the scene, Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said today. Martin did not fire.

It was one of the few attempts that have been made by inmates within the walled section of the reformatory to escape. Glattke said both inmates would have to serve additional time as a penalty for their attempt.

Hunter, 4 Other New Officials Move Into City Hall Tomorrow

It will be "open house" at the city building tomorrow when Mayor-elect Claude M. Hunter takes over the reins of the municipal government on the first day of the new year. Four other newly-elected officials also will assume their posts tomorrow.

Reporting for his first day as the city's chief executive, Hunter said, the mayor's office will be swung open and the "welcome" mat dusted off.

"That's where it will remain as long as I am in office," he added.

Festivities will hold sway during the forenoon tomorrow with the new mayor following the custom of greeting well wishers in his office. There will be cigars on hand for the men and candy for the women.

Hunter will spend the morning in the office but at noon will roll down his desk and retire to his home for the rest of the day.

Also taking up their official duties tomorrow will be Marion D. Ward jr., who becomes city solicitor and Glenn A. Davidson, who returns after a two year absence as city treasurer.

Herbert H. Schettler, retiring solicitor will resume his private law practice. Dean A. Eckert is the retiring city treasurer.

The two new members of city council who take office New Year day are Arthur L. Croak, councilman from the sixth ward and Harry M. Emmons, councilman-at-large.

Too busy to sing a "swan song" on the last day of his administration, Mayor Earl A. McFarland, who will leave the keys to the city behind him when he leaves the city hall late this afternoon, held a number of conferences and took care of the routine business of the State Examiner Surrenders to Toledo Prosecutor.

TOLEDO—(AP)—James Bolinger, Fremont, O., examiner for the state securities division, surrendered today to Thomas J. O'Connor, Lucas county prosecutor, to answer to a secret indictment charging him with soliciting a $3,000 bribe in connection with the operations of the defunct Toledo Guaranty corporation.

Bolinger, whose surrender was arranged by his attorney, Dan McCullough, is accused in a two-count indictment, of soliciting a bribe from William R. Parmele, president of the corporation, and John L. Rossel, former vice president, Sept. 30, 1936.

The indictment, voted by the Lucas county grand jury two weeks ago, was reported secretly to Judge James S. Martin yesterday by Walter Kountz, jury foreman.

Hitler Says Armaments Big Task for 1938.

BERLIN—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler, in a New Year's message to Germany today, said that increasing the nation's armaments would be a task for 1938.

He justified strengthening the reich's military power thus: "We believe we will be able only as a strong nation to preserve the precious peace in the future and during the present unrestful period."

EAST LIVERPOOL — (U.P.) — John P. Stevenson, high school teacher and a Methodist Episcopal minister, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state legislator at the coming primaries.

City's Merchants Plan Welcome For 1st Baby of 1938

The baby that has the good judgment to arrive first in Mansfield after the turn of the new year, will be warmly welcomed by Mansfield merchants.

The annual stork derby is on and the first 1938 baby will receive gifts, not only for its small self, but for its parents as well.

The race is open only to babies whose parents live within the corporation boundaries of the city, and the official signal that the race is under way will be when the two hands of the clock are at exactly 12 o'clock midnight tonight.

Among the gifts will be articles of clothing for the newcomer, fuel, food and milk. Official birth records will decide the race, but it will expedite the judging if doctors or nurses will call The News-Journal when they have entries in the contest.

BABIES DIE, CLOSE WARDS

CHICAGO — (AP) — Dr. Morris Fishbein, spokesman for the American Medical association, said today that two Cook county hospital maternity wards had been closed for disinfection as a result of the death of three infants within the past week.

1937 Leaves Trail of Unusual Happenings

By JOSEPH E. KUEBLER
(City Editor, News-Journal)

A FEW hours hence and another year disappears into oblivion, leaving a trail of unusual if not sensational happenings in its wake in Mansfield.

From a cold analytical viewpoint, 1937 produced its share of headlines for Page One, though perhaps they weren't exactly the type that gives the corner newsboy a field day.

There were trials and tribulations in every walk of life . . . an infantile paralysis scare . . . a kidnaping in an age of kidnapings . . . a traffic headache in a city which already has its tummy full of traffic problems . . . an old institution fell by the wayside —the street cars left forever.

Then there were a few strikes, none of serious consequence, including a coal blockade, despite a year that was marked with unusual labor unrest nationally . . . an election (they come every year) was won by the Democrats in a walk . . . several industries spent good-sized sums for improvements and expansion as a severe business recession developed in the closing months . . . death visited the homes of a number of the city's prominent residents, including one of its wealthiest citizens.

Many other events played important roles in the Mansfield scene.

Rumors of a gambling shakedown the previous year finally resulted in a grand jury investigation being launched in February. Several weeks later Roy F. Swaney, 51, former automobile dealer who at one time had been linked with the Toledo underworld, was indicted for blackmail in a case that was to provide the year's No. 1 news story.

Late in April after the city's gambling linen had been given a thorough cleaning in common pleas court, Swaney was convicted of "shaking down" the proprietor of a North Walnut establishment under the threat of closing the place. His sentence was one to five years in the Ohio penitentiary.

It is not every day an institu-

Wearing Clothing To Please Man, Final Fashion Advice

(AP Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK—The most important thing in fashion is dressing to please your man.

He cares about what you wear and can be more irritated than you think by the wrong color or hat. Pleasing him should mean more to you than a listing in "the ten best dressed."

Consult his taste and cater to it. He may know more than you about: (1) how a certain color looks on you, (2) the way a dress and hat look in the back, (3) the effect of both on your while silhouette.

To give you first hand facts on what men like in women's clothes, I canvassed both bachelors and married men in one of America's largest organizations. This is what I learned:

Men like simplicity first in women's clothes. Dresses with knicknacks on shoulders or hips, standing out from the natural body line, are their pet abominations.

They love a trim slender figure. Flatteringly low-cut evening gowns draw no frowns from them, provided the decolletage doesn't reveal collar bones or fat arms.

Black's a Favorite.

"Crazy hats" they abhor. The ultra-eccentric headgear some women are wearing this year has set them all muttering.

Most of them like black — if you don't resemble "a walking hearse," and if you lighten it now and then with a jeweled accent or a glowing touch of color. White and blue are their other two favorite hues.

They detest masses of costume jewelry — especially if it clanks. One clip or necklace is enough.

Likes and Dislikes.

They like to have you give the impression that you are soft, warm and nice to touch. Clothes on the fluffy side, however, fail to get their applause.

They hate: Eyebrows plucked to a hairline, false eyelashes, heavy mascara eye make-up, rouge that stands up in two, obvious bright spots, crooked stocking seams, open-heeled sandals that plop up and down, white accessories that are not fresh and women who are continually patting their hair and clothes.

They like. Natural looking makeup, bright lipstick (not too heavy and vivid), shining hair, not stiffly set, open-toed sandals with enough support for the foot, high heels (no spikes), trim belts and veils. Most of them like enameled finger nails, but prefer the soft rose shades to fire engine red.

There is one last thing to consider in dressing to please your man. Don't wear yourself to a thread trying to appear in a new outfit every time you see him. The average male won't know or care whether you wear a new dress or not.

WED ON HOLIDAY

PERRYSVILLE — Word has been received by friends here of the marriage of Miss Lucis Menuez, of Counter, and Arthur Cramer, of Wooster, which took place on Christmas day in the Lutheran parsonage at Wooster, with Rev. Paul S. Kelly officiating.

Following the wedding ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cramer, in Wooster, for about fifteen guests.

YEAR'S EVENTS CLOSE AT SOCIAL SESSIONS

ANY NUMBER of small social clubs met yesterday for their final party of 1937 and to make plans for the first meetings of the coming year. Luncheon meetings were held by the Acorn club and the Thursday Mothers' club, while many other groups spent the afternoon playing cards or other games in a similar social way.

Mrs. John Long, Wayne street, was hostess recently to members of the It-Ul-Do club when they met for cards. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. L. E. Schmid, Mrs. Marvin Grabler and Mrs. Clarence Cook, a guest. The next meeting will be Jan. 12 at Mrs. Grabler's home on Bigelow road.

1937 a Banner Year In Mansfield Sports

Red Sox Win Major Recognition for City by Annexing Ohio State League Title—Tygers Also Gain Prestige In Football.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

THAT diapered urchin steps into a pretty big job at midnight. But if he is fortunate enough to get a few breaks here and there along the line, he may emulate the record of his predeccesor.

The year to pass out of existence at midnight was a banner one for athletics in every respect in the city and vicinity.

Stover

A well-diversified schedule of events, better attractions and bigger crowds made 1937 the most prosperous athletic year in more than a decade in Mansfield.

History was made in many sports, but the No. 1 achievement of the year must be accredited to the Mansfield Red Sox, who won the Ohio State league pennant, the first championship annexed by a team representing the city in modern organized baseball.

The first team to represent Mansfield in an organized league in 25 years, the Red Sox, sponsored by the Boston American league club, won the pennant in a one-sided race which they dominated from the very start.

The Red Soxers were out of first place only two days after the first week of the season.

After clinching the pennant, the Red Sox made it a clean sweep by winning the Shaughnessy playoff title in five straight games.

The Red Sox boasted of the champion batsman of the league in Manager Dewey Stover, whose leadership was a major factor in the triumphant season, and the leading home run socker and base thief in John Barrett, who, with Steve Patras, was sold to the Hazelton, Pa., club of the Eastern league at the end of the season.

Sandlot baseball also thrived. More teams represented the city than in any recent year. The sandlot season was climaxed with a city tournament which was won by the Mohican Chevrolets.

* * *

Tygers Lose One Game.

FOOTBALL enjoyed a successful year. Mansfield high school was ousted from the N. C. O. conference due to the power of the Tygers on the gridiron. The forced withdrawal made it necessary for the Tygers to play an independent schedule, the toughest a Mansfield club had encountered in many years.

The Tygers came through the season with few marks. They won six games, tied two and lost only one under the guidance of Coach Russ Murphy and his assistant, Harry Mehock.

The major achievement of the Tygers was their 6-6 tie with Massillon, mythical state champion. Mansfield was the only Ohio school to apply a mark to the Massillon record. Another notable feat was the Tygers' 3 to 0 triumph over the Western Reserve freshmen. The lone defeat was administered by Sandusky, 6 to 0.

Mansfield placed Capt. John Hallabrin, a halfback, on the All-Ohio scholastic team. Elmer Dials, an end, received mention on the second selection.

Madison, a Mansfield suburban school, continued its supremacy in the Mid-State league by winning its fourth title in five years. The Rams, coached by Al Fendrick, held the distinction of being one of five or six undefeated and untied Class B elevens in the state

* * *

Regains Popularity.

BASKETBALL'S return to popular favor was evident in 1937. The indoor winter game drew larger crowds than ever before in its history, and the caliber of the teams was greatly improved.

Mansfield high courtiers made a sensational comeback to finish second in the N. C. O. conference, but were dropped out of the district tournament in the first game. Mansfield amateur teams compiled fine records, with the Dominion Electric quintet winning the City Class A league title.

Ontario high completely outclassed its rivals to annex the county league and tournament titles and then won the district championship to hang up an undefeated string of 23 games.

The first county Class B school ever to advance to the state tournament, Ontario suffered its first defeat of the season to Upper Arlington, which won the Ohio title in the first game.

Golfers marked down 1937 as their greatest year. All of the Mansfield courses reported record years, with Reid Mull winning the Westbrook Country club championship, Carl Kushin annexing the Possum Run crown and Mike Ziway triumphing in the Coolridge elimination. A number of new records were set.

The Ohio Seniors' golf tournament was again held at Westbrook with a record number of entries. F. W. Phelps of Cleveland retained the championship.

The Mansfield Relays again attracted a big field. Poor weather conditions limited record-breaking achievements, but it cannot be denied that it was one of the most successful meets ever staged in the city. Sandusky won the team title.

Mansfield finished 10th in the Relays, but boasted of a state champion in Gil Weigand, who established a new record of 188 ft 2⅜ inches in the javelin event in the Ohio scholastic finals. John Linta one of the chief Mansfield point getters, fared well as a pole vaulter in all of the meets in which he competed including the junior A. A. U. in Milwaukee last summer.

* * *

Bowling Alleys Busy.

BOWLING remained Mansfield's major winter sport. More bowlers took part in league competition than ever before in the history of the game in the city.

To Clarence Meder goes the distinction of supplying the most noteworthy feat of the year. He became the first bowler to roll a perfect game in a Mansfield league.

Despite a lack of courts, tennis again had a big following, with Lowell Bourns winning the major titles.

The number of leagues was reduced, but softball retained its followers. The Johns park entry won the major city title, the Westinghouse plant won the company's Ohio tournament and the East Side night club annexed the district championship, and was eliminated from the state tournament in its second game after defeating the defending champions, Page Dairys of Toledo, in its opener.

All of the other sports fared well during 1937, except professional boxing, which again found this city not interested.

Elks Can Hop Into 2nd Place Monday

By CHARLES MARTIN

AN OPPORTUNITY to grab second place in the City Class A basketball league race will be offered the Elks club Monday night when they tangle with the Westinghouse Electric quintet in the second tilt of the weekly program on the Senior high court.

The Westies now hold the runner up position by the margin of a half game, and a defeat would knock them into third. The Elks have marked up a victory and suffered a defeat, while the Westinghouse club sports a record of two triumphs and a setback.

In the opening game Monday night the Ira D. Ling Canzols and Mack's Pure Oil outfit will be battling to chalk up their initial league victory. Both clubs have been defeated twice. The league leading Yuncker Sports combine will be idle.

The Elks, led by Adam Brandt, Jim Wallace and Gene Brandon, all City league veterans, present a dangerous lineup. Their defeat was by a two-point margin at the hands of the touted Yuncker team. Indications point to a real battle as the Westies also lost to the leaders by the same margin.

Included in the Elks club roster are Russ Hoff, who, in his last appearance, set a season individual scoring record with 14 points, and Noel Morgan. Both are former Mansfield high stars and have supplied considerable punch to the Elks attack.

Untiet Agents Pace Commerical B Loop

THE Untiet Insurance keglers made sure that they would end the old year in first place in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night by coming through with a 2910 total and a trio of victories over the Mansfield Rugs.

The Agents, who finished with a 1020, were paced by Johns' 648 and Funston's 609. The Rugs rolled a 2762, with Brinkman missing the 600 circle by one pin.

Led by Reinhart's 645, the Mansfield Printers punched out a 2825, including a 1071 game, to sweep their match with the Yuncker Sports.

Bears' Followers Haunted By Past

California's Confidence Shaken by Fear That Another Hubert or Moore or Howell Will Spring Up to Spoil Rose Bowl Party.

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN

PASADENA, Cal.—(AP)—Recession in California favoritism marked the final flurry of Rose Bowl game guessing today as gridiron ghosts of other Tide teams stepped out of the past to haunt Golden Bear followers.

With little left to do but see the old year out and await the opening kickoff New Year's day, the optimism that once made the Pacific Coast champions 3 to 1 favorites had diminished to near even money.

And it seemed that confidence, pinned on the great running attack of Coach Stub Allison's eleven, had been shaken by the fear that another Pooley Hubert or a Jimmy Moore or a Dixie Howell might spring out of the huddle tomorrow to pass the ears off the Bears.

The fear was intensified by the fact that the weatherman promised a fast gridiron and a contention that if California has a weakness it is on pass defense.

That Coach Frank Thomas' boys had to resort to field goals in two games to keep their slate clean when passes failed only added to the confusion of the guessers. And of course as a place kicker, Sandy Sanford's no ghost.

It has become increasingly hard to forget 'Bama's Rose Bowl habit of making quick aerial stabs to erase hard-earned leads gained by their other western foes on the ground.

Hubert's throws did it in one period to whip Washington 20 to 19 in 1926. Moore caught Washington State flat-footed in the 24 to 0 triumph of 1931 and Howell passed Stanford dizzy three years ago. Alabama tied Stanford 7 to 7 in its other bowl appearance in 1927.

Tomorrow it could be Joe Kilgrow, who threw five touchdown passes this year; or Herk Moseley, who added three more.

Bears Need Victory.

Alabama seemed to hold the edge in reserve strength, but while precedent gave the Tide the edge in determination California has perhaps a greater need for victory.

The roundup from the other foot-bowl sites:

Sugar Bowl—One of the stars on the doubtful list is Santa Clara's Everett Fisher, a fullback. Coach Buck Shaw said yesterday that his ace bucker might not be able to play because of an injured leg and then drilled his team on defense against the running and passing of Louisiana State's young Cappy Bussey. The Tigers contented themselves with a signal drill and a look at Santa Clara formations.

* * *

Cotton Bowl—Rice reported all clear of injuries as the team arrived in Dallas, scene of the game with Colorado. Coach Jimmy Kitts said his team was "in the best condition of the season," and beamed as his Owls worked out lightly. Bunny Oakes, Colorado mentor, denied rumors his Buffaloes are riddled by injuries and said he would not announce his starting lineup until just before game time.

* * *

Orange Bowl—Injuries to Ole Nelson, stellar end, worried Michigan State's coach, Charlie Bachman. Nelson is the receiver for Halfback Johnny Pingel's aerials. Meanwhile Auburn arrived in Miami, full of confidence. The same lineup which opened the last game of the regular season against Florida will start for the plainsmen.

* * *

Sun Bowl—The tightest of the battles looms here where its 4 to 5 in the betting and take your pick. West Virginia has flashed a sparkling aerial attack but so has Texas Tech. Both sides drilled on aerials yesterday.

* * *

East-West — The rival squads tapered off by running offensive formations, which should be a tip-off on the kind of game this will be. The west threw passes while the easterners worked on blocking and line plays. Ed Franco, Fordham's all-America tackle, and Elmore Hackney, Duke halfback, moved into the starting lineup for the east.

1937—THE GOOFY SIDE: Ten Yarns You'd Never Miss—Or Would You?

TEN stories that didn't shake the world, but shook your sides during the year 1937, are here recorded for posterity. . . . The world got a laugh out of them—anyway a chuckle or titter—and the year would have been worse than it was without them. . . . War, floods and other horrors filled the news, but there was always room for the light side of things in your newspaper. Lest you forget—

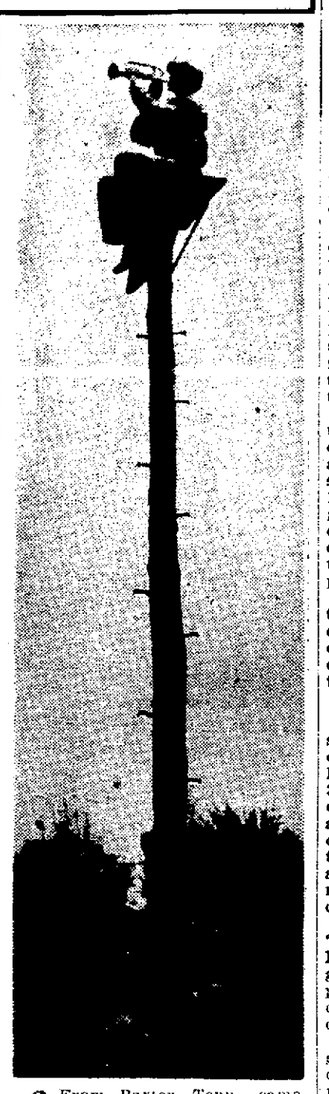
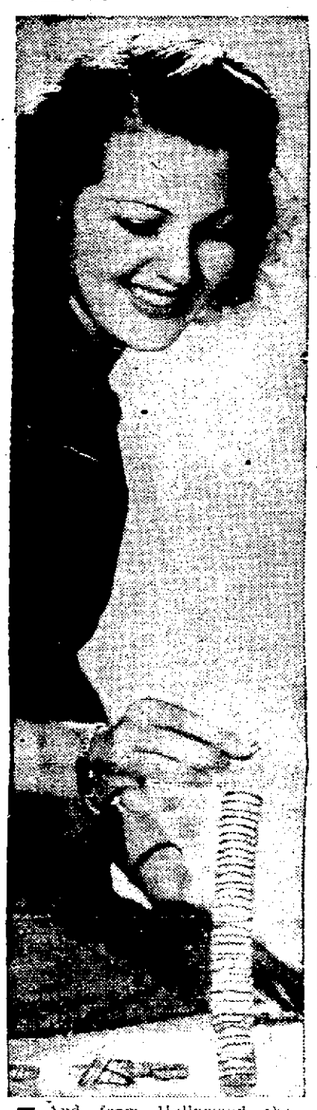
2 The British empire held its breath while Edward stepped down from the throne a year ago and his brother George stepped up. But Anthony Hall, an ex-police inspector who once lived in California, didn't hold his. Instead he proclaimed himself the real king of England as "Anthony the First." He claimed descent from Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn and played at king by printing up his own currency. Here he is shown signing a few notes of it.

3 Al Mingalone, newsreel photographer, went up in the air attached to a cluster of balloons. He was doing fine until his safety line snapped. After that he sailed through the air with the greatest of ease. The Rev. James J. Mullen brought him back to earth in Maine by popping the balloons one at a time with a rifle. Nice work—nice shot, Hi, Al!



6 From Baxter, Tenn., came word of Charlie Hughes, the "human alarm clock." Atop a 20-foot pole he sounds "time to get up" every morning for his fellow townsmen. He's been blowing his horn for 13 years, and here he is at it. Though he doesn't bugle at night, Charlie usually climbs the pole of an evening just to make sure he can do it next morning.



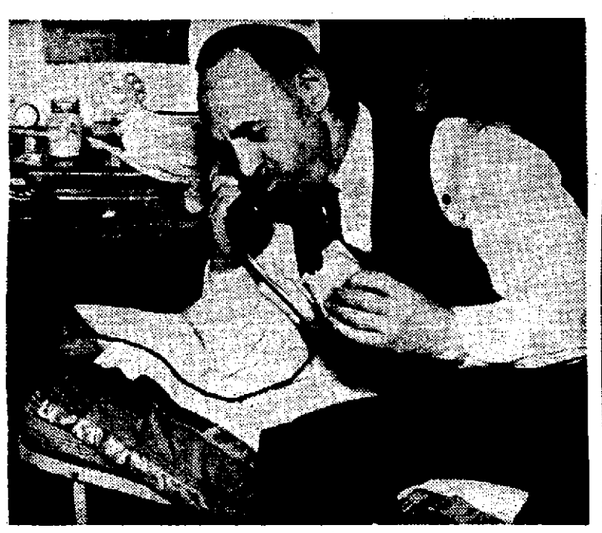
7 And from Hollywood the glamorous came a new game, "Topsy Jes' Grows." To play it, you pile up bottle caps—as above. Some fun, eh? Jean Rogers, blonde film actress, started it. In Cleveland, Dr. Thomas Staggers varied the play by pyramiding match sticks on a bottle. When last heard of, he had stacked 12,000. The picture shows Jean, not the doctor.

4 "World's youngest minister," the Rev. Charles Jaynes, jr, 7, of Riverside, Calif., preached on Hell, or God's Penitentiary," after his ordination.

5 In Washington last June two members of the house of representatives unlimbered their voices for a hog-callin' contest. Otha Wearin (right) of Iowa cried "S—po-po—ie," cornbelt hog language, while Bob Mouton of Louisiana bellowed, "Eh, la bas," pig call in the Cajan country. Wearin claimed victory when Mouton withdrew, but they later shouted it out to no decision at the Democratic party on Jefferson island. We thought you'd like to know.

8 Charlie McCarthy is a famous dummy (in fact he's about the only dummy you can call a dummy without getting into trouble), and he got into the papers again when Judy Canova, film singer blamed him for breaking off her romance with Charlie's voice, Ventriloquist Edgar Bergen. But who's kissing Edgar here? Why, it's Loretta Lee, New Orleans. Charlie looks on.

9 M. C. Blackman of Little Rock, Ark., appeared in print as the executive secretary of the Society for the Booing of Commercial Advertisements in Motion Picture theaters. As an officer, his prowess at booing was considered superior, and it was, as the expression shows in this picture of Mr. Blackman distributed for purposes of instructing other booers.



10 Walter N. Fry, president of the Fry Products company of Detroit, went on a sitdown strike himself after 150 of his employes showed him the way. "I do 99 per cent of the selling," he said, bringing a bed into his office in preparation for a long stay. "If I go on strike, they won't have work." Guess he had them there, for this labor-dispute-in-reverse was ironed out. The sitdown boss, no bluffer, is shown at his office phone.

CITY GETS FUNDS

$2,500 From Auto Fees Hikes General Operating Balance.

Mansfield has received an allocation of $2,500 from the statewide distribution of automobile registration funds, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said today.

Kelley said the amount would be applied to the auto registration fee fund to bolster the running cash balance to approximately $14,000.

He said the amount was anticipated revenue and some of it was already earmarked for debt retirement. The balance would be used for the construction and maintenance of city streets, he said.

'37 MARKED BY UNUSUAL NEWS

tion that has withstood the pitfalls of a half century, passes out of the picture, so it was an event of some consequence on June 6 when the city's last street car made its final run.

It marked the passing of one of the oldest trolley lines in the world. There was a little ceremony connected with the affair—the car was full but no fares were collected—pictures were taken and then old "51" headed for the barns and extinction. The next day Mansfield's transportation system was completely motorized.

An infantile paralysis scare in the middle of August brought the city's playground program to an abrupt end as a 20-year-old girl supervisor died. Children under 16 were barred from all public gatherings for three weeks in an effort to combat the insidious disease that for a time brought back unpleasant memories of the typhoid fever epidemic of 1936.

One other case was reported in the city and two others in the county, one resulting in a second death, but the city's schools opened on schedule at the expiration of the quarantine period.

Father Kidnaps Son.

Another of 1937's major news stories was the kidnaping of eight-year-old Billy Budd of Ashland by his father, William Budd, 35, of Perrysville. Because the offense occurred in Butler, it was a matter for Richland county courts to settle—could a father take custody of his own child after the boy's mother had been made his sole guardian by another court.

The answer, the court said, was "no." Budd and his second wife, Freda, 29, later entered pleas of guilty to kidnaping and were placed on probation, ending one of the most unusual cases in local courts in years.

With recommendations and suggestions from various sources, city council decided in mid-summer that traffic on North Walnut street between Park avenue west and West Fourth should be one-way, northbound. It was argued that it would relieve congestion and tend to remedy some of the city's traffic ills.

A 'Noble Experiment.'

The idea provided more than one interesting story—and some fireworks while it lasted. Labeled a "noble experiment," the city fathers declared the one-way plan "null and void" two months later.

Traffic—the tragic side of it—also figured prominently in the year's news. Twenty-nine deaths from accidents were recorded in the county during the year, nearly double the 1936 figure. Only six of these deaths were caused by mishaps within the limits of the city, however.

Then there came a blockade of four coal yards in October that later spread to all the companies in the city and tied up deliveries for several days. Union drivers submitted a number of demands but later a truce was reached and the controversy passed over without violence.

Election—Always News.

Elections provide important news just about every year, and 1937 was no exception. The Democratic party, headed by its mayoralty nominee, Claude M. Hunter swept the municipal election and as a result takes control of the city building starting tomorrow.

Industries always are of major concern to a city because of the importance of their operating schedule to the economic life of the community. Mansfield's industries also broke into the headlines in 1937 with expansion and improvement programs.

Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company announced it will spend $250,000 for improvements as the year drew to a close. The Tappan Stove company spent $90,000 to improve its plant while the Mansfield Tire company completed an addition to its factory during the year and brought new equipment at a total cost of $100,000.

Death claimed the founder of one of the city's key industries when Frank B. Black, chairman of the board of the Ohio Brass company was stricken a week before Christmas. His passing took an important figure from the industrial world as well as one of the city's wealthiest and most influential citizens.

SALES TAX SHOWS SLUMP

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Despite proximity to the Christmas holidays, sales tax collections for the week ended Dec. 18 amounted to only $922,672, State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley reported today. This compared with $1,305,411 collected in the same week a year ago.

LEGAL NOTICE

In the Court of Common Pleas, Richland County, Ohio.

Frank Arnold, et al., Plaintiffs, vs. Jacob Schmidt, et al., etc., Defendants. Case No.——. Petition for cancellation of deed and possession of property.

George Arnold, whose last known address was 627 East State St., Hammond, Indiana, and Henry Arnold, whose last place of residence is unknown, and both of whom are heirs of Elizabeth Munch, deceased, will take notice that Frank Arnold, et al on the 26th day of November, 1937, filed their petition in the Court of Common Pleas, of Richland County, Ohio, for the cancellation of deed from Elizabeth Munch to Jacob Schmidt and Edna Schmidt and for other equitable relief.

Lot Number 3416 of the consecutive numberings of lots in the City of Mansfield, Ohio, and further described as being located at what is commonly called 220 Johns Avenue in the City of Mansfield, Ohio.

The prayer of said petition is for the cancellation of this said deed and the possession of this and other property. The above mentioned parties will take notice that they have been made party defendants to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 11th day of February, 1938.

LEGAL NOTICE

Glenn W. Young, 2605 Fourteenth Street, Detroit, Michigan, will take notice that Kathryn Young has filed her petition, in which he is defendant, in the Court of Common Pleas, Richland County, Ohio, praying for divorce, restoration of her maiden name, and that she be awarded as alimony and property allowance all rights and equity of the defendant in and to the following described real estate, and a certain contract for purchase of the same from C. C. MacDonald, executor of the wills of Mary F. Throne and William L. Throne

"Being part of out-lot No. 1 of the consecutive numbers of outlots in the City of Mansfield, Ohio, also known as house number 171 McPherson Street, Mansfield, Ohio." And that she be awarded such other relief as is just and proper; grounds set forth in petition, "gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty; said cause will be for hearing on or any time after the 25th day of January, 1938."

GEORGE W. BIDDLE,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

POPEYE—Mixed Signals. By Segar

-SO I WENT OUT ON THE PALACE BALCONY AND CALLED MY PEOPLE TOGETHER-I FELT HIGH AND MIGHTY FROM THE RED WINE I'D GUZZLED
SO I THREW OUT MY CHEST AND SAID, "DEAR PEOPLE, I PROMISE YOU RAIN WHEN YOU WANT RAIN-AND I PROMISE YOU SUNSHINE WHEN YOU WANT SUNSHINE" AND WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE HAPPENED ?
I AIN'T GOT NO IDEAR
WELL, WHEN THEY WANTED RAIN THEY GOT SUNSHINE AND WHEN THEY WANTED SUNSHINE THEY GOT RAIN
SO THEY KICKED ME OUT
OH, MY GORSH!! I FORGOT- WIMPY'S GETTIN' HUNG

OF COURSE, MR. GUDGE, I'M NOT SAYING ANYTHING, BUT IT'S MIGHTY PECULIAR- MY OPINION IS THAT RED HEAD ISN'T HER CHILD AT ALL-
AND DID YOU NOTICE, BENONA, ABIGAIL DIDN'T SAY SHE WAS-NO- ABIGAIL HAD MIGHTY LITTLE TO SAY- TOO LITTLE-ROSE CHANCE- THERE WAS A FAMILY NAMED CHANCE LIVED IN SPRINGFIELD- DECIDEDLY NOT THE BEST PEOPLE, AS I RECALL-
HUMPH- THE WAY ABIGAIL TREATS THEM YOU'D THINK THEY WERE HER LONG LOST KINFOLKS, AT LEAST-
AHEM--HA! HA! AS YOU LADIES KNOW, I'M, AH, BROAD MINDED, TO SAY THE LEAST- BUT IT SEEMS WRONG TO ME TO ALLOW DEAR ABIGAIL, IN HER STRAITENED CIRCUMSTANCES, TO ASSUME SUCH A BURDEN- DOWNRIGHT WRONG-
HOW RIGHT YOU ARE-
HOW TRUE-
WELL, IT WON'T BE LONG NOW- THAT LITTLE PENSION HAS KEPT HER JUST AFLOAT SO FAR- HA! HA! BUT WITH THAT GANG OF BEGGARS TO SUPPORT---- NO, IT WON'T BE LONG TILL THAT MORTGAGE WILL BE DUE--- HA! HA! AND THEN----

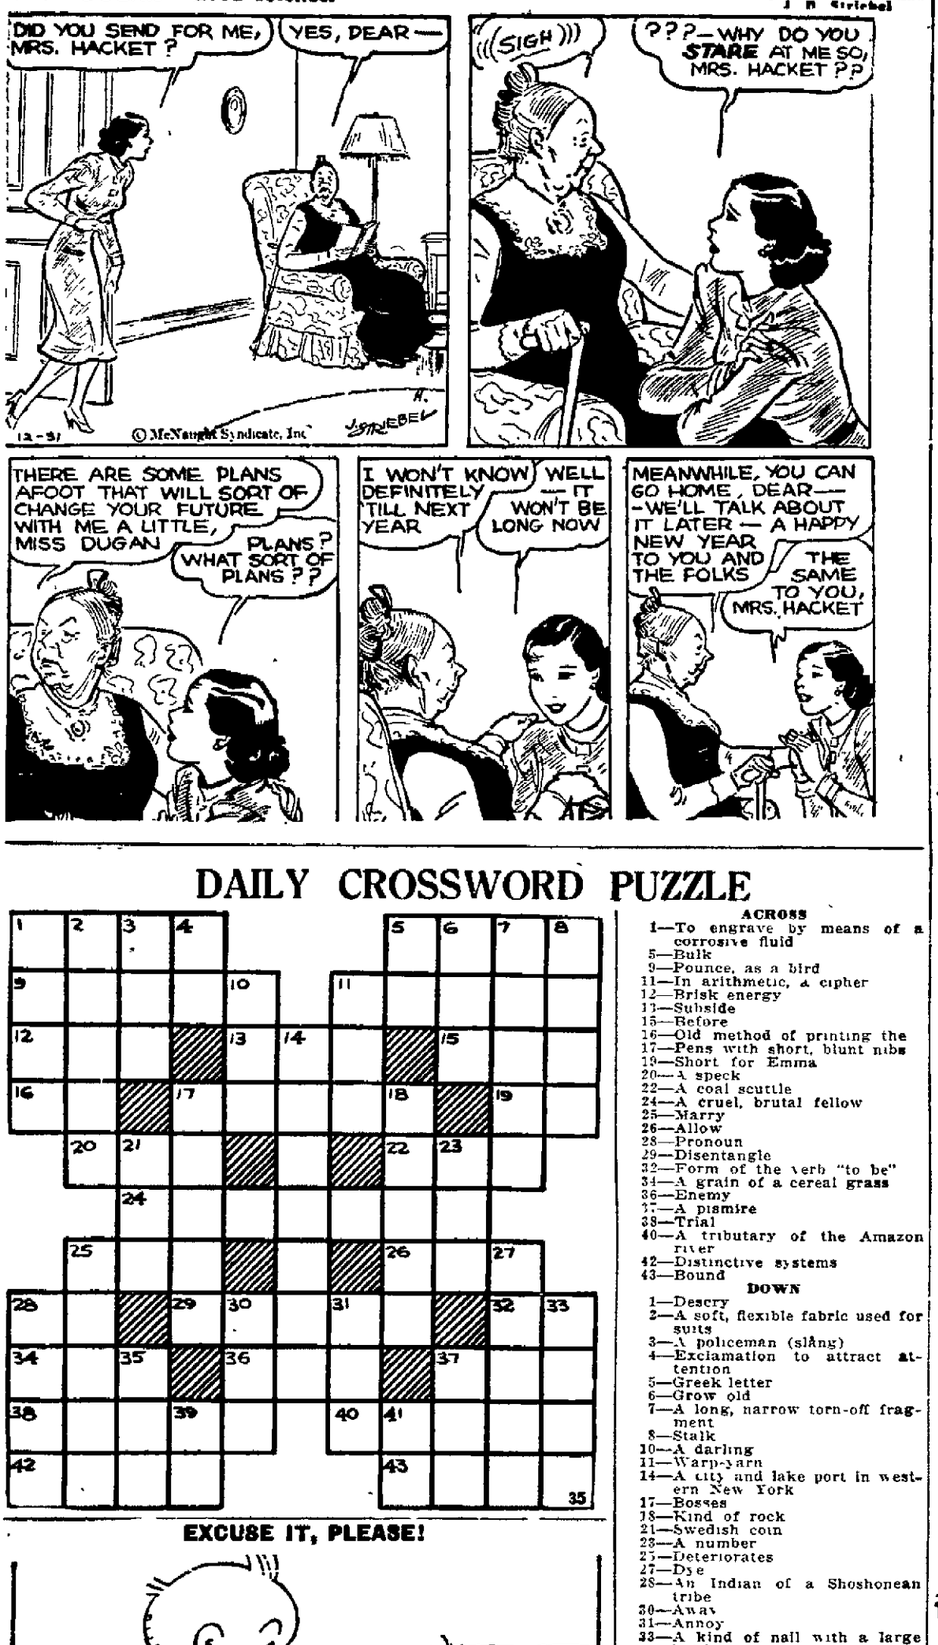
THE NEBBS—The Same Old Story. By Sol Hess

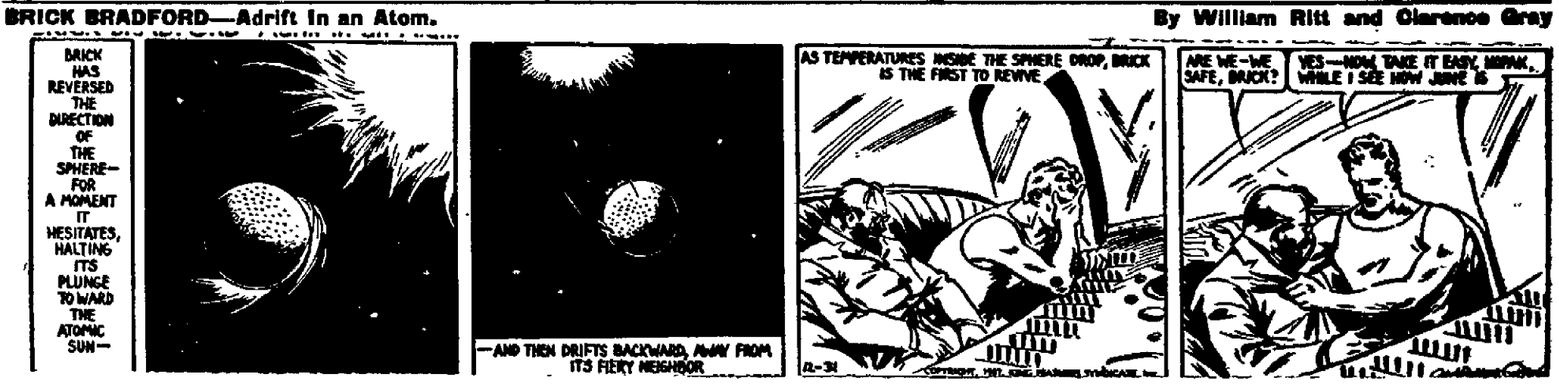
RUDY, I HAD YOUR DRESS CLOTHES ALL CLEANED AND PRESSED-- I PUT BUTTONS IN YOUR SHIRT- EVERYTHING IS READY FOR YOU!
THAT'S THE ONLY TIME YOU GET EVERYTHING READY FOR ME, WHEN YOU WANT TO DRAG ME OUT!!
I'VE OFTEN BEGGED YOU TO LET ME STAY HOME ONE NEW YEARS EVE AND I TOLD YOU TIME AND AGAIN THE NEW YEAR COULD COME IN WITHOUT OUR HELP
WELL, IF YOU THINK I'M GOING TO STAY HOME NEW YEARS EVE AND LOOK AT FOUR WALLS AND LISTEN TO YOU SNORE, YOU'RE WRONG! I GET THAT EVERY NIGHT....THIS NIGHT WILL BE DIFFERENT!
THE TROUBLE WITH THAT WOMAN IS SHE HASN'T ANYTHING TO DO BUT WORRY ABOUT WHAT SHE'S GOING TO DO!

DIXIE DUGAN—Good Wishes. By J. H. McEvoy and J. R. Stirling



DID YOU SEND FOR ME, MRS. HACKET ?
YES, DEAR—
(SIGH)
???-WHY DO YOU STARE AT ME SO, MRS. HACKET ??
©McNaught Syndicate, Inc.
THERE ARE SOME PLANS AFOOT THAT WILL SORT OF CHANGE YOUR FUTURE WITH ME A LITTLE, MISS DUGAN
PLANS ? WHAT SORT OF PLANS ??
I WON'T KNOW DEFINITELY 'TILL NEXT YEAR
WELL — IT WON'T BE LONG NOW
MEANWHILE, YOU CAN GO HOME, DEAR— -WE'LL TALK ABOUT IT LATER — A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO YOU AND THE FOLKS
THE SAME TO YOU, MRS. HACKET

BRICK BRADFORD—Adrift in an Atom. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray



BRICK HAS REVERSED THE DIRECTION OF THE SPHERE— FOR A MOMENT IT HESITATES, HALTING ITS PLUNGE TOWARD THE ATOMIC SUN—
—AND THEN DRIFTS BACKWARD, AWAY FROM ITS FIERY NEIGHBOR
AS TEMPERATURES INSIDE THE SPHERE DROP, BRICK IS THE FIRST TO REVIVE ARE WE—WE SAFE, BRICK?
YES—NOW TAKE IT EASY, NEPAK, WHILE I SEE HOW JANE IS

MICKEY MOUSE—A Rolling Stone Gathers Moss. By Walt Disney

SURROUNDED BY HIS GUARD, DUKE VARLOTT RUSHES TO THE DOOR OF HIS CASTLE, TO SPEAK TO MINNIE!
DON'T BE SILLY!
I KNOW THE WHOLE STORY, JUST AS WELL AS YOU DO! WHAT'S MORE I TALKED TO HIM, MYSELF— ONLY YESTERDAY!
MEANWHILE, ON THE FAR SIDE OF THE CASTLE-----
TH' TEN MINUTES IS UP! IF MINNIE'S DON' HER STUFF, NOW'S TH' TIME FOR ME T' DO MINE!

TAILSPIN TOMMY—Promotion Under Protest! By Hal Forrest

NOW SEE HERE, SKEETS, YOU OUGHT TO KNOW THAT WE DON'T ALLOW SENTIMENT TO RULE THREE-POINT!
YESSIR
I KNOW YOU'D RATHER FLY CO-PILOT FOR TOMMY, BUT WE'VE GOT TO MAKE ROOM FOR DUMAK, HERE, AND MOVE YOU UP
OKAY, CHIEF
YOU'LL TAKE OUT FLIGHT FOUR TONIGHT AS CHIEF PILOT
YEP..ER.. I MEAM, YESSIR.
GOOD! I'LL MAKE OUT THE ORDER FOR THE CHIEF DISPATCHER.
CHIEF, CAN I SEE YOU ALONE, NOW? IT'S TERRIBLY IMPORTANT!

DAVID! YOU— YOU CAN'T EVEN STAY TO SEE THE NEW YEAR IN ?
PAM, IN THIRTY MINUTES I MUST HOP A PLANE OUT OF THIS CITY!
NO, I CAN'T EVEN SIT DOWN, —REALLY HADN'T TIME TO COME UP—BUT I WANTED TO SEE YOU!— —YOU KNOW I TOLD YOU THIS MIGHT HAPPEN—I WAS HOPING IT WOULDN'T BREAK TILL TOMORROW —I HATE NOT BEING ABLE TO BE WITH YOU MORE THAN YOU DO!
OH, DAVID —I— HATE SEEING YOU GO!
YOU'RE LOVELY TONIGHT, LITTLE LADY—REMEMBER, I'LL BE THINKING OF YOU —SEE YOU AGAIN SOON AS I CAN—BE A BRAVE GIRL!
I'LL BE BRAVE, DAVID— GOOD LUCK TO YOU!
JUST ANOTHER THING SERVING THE F. B. I. CALLS FOR —SACRIFICE! —OH, IF I WERE ONLY AS BRAVE AS DAVID!
SO THE RACKETEERS HAD THE RIGHT TIP! —WE WONDER IF THEY SUCCEEDED IN GETTING TO THAT PLANE? WILL PAM EVER SEE DAVID AGAIN ?

NEW YORK — (AP) — Stocks turned downward today in the final market of 1937.

Leaders yielded a point or more, but dealings were inclined to slow up near the second hour.

Further denunciatio of "big business" by Secretary Ickes chilled sentiment in the boardrooms, brokers said, although the official's address was in line with expectations.

Sales for immediate delivery were again plentiful, this being the last day of the year on which "cash" transfers could be recorded for income tax purposes.

Bonds and commodities were moderately mixed.

Well advertised clearance events, Dun & Bradstreet reported, helped cushion the post-Christmas drop in retail spending. Dwindling inventories were indicated by the survey which noted "complaints from consumers were numerous of the inability to obtain desired grades and sizes of merchandise."

Holders of automotive shares studied estimates placing fourth quarter profits in this field at between 20 and 25 per cent under the same period a year ago.

HUNTER MOVES INTO CITY HALL

day. Callers were waiting in the vestibule of his office throughout the day.

"I'm leaving the office of mayor feeling perfectly satisfied with the administration of the past two years," he said. "When I came into office two years ago, I had a two-fold objective: to operate the city within its income, and to strengthen the police department. We have accomplished both. Mansfield's police department today is at least 100 per cent more efficient than it was two years ago.

"We have made a greater effort to solve the traffic problem than any previous administration, and as proof of it cite comparative figures: in the four years immediately preceding this administration 2,700 traffic tickets were served and collected. During the past two years, more than 7,700 have been served on traffic violators.

"I think I am leaving office with no more criticism than that usually accorded a retiring public office holder. Personally, I am glad that I have had the experience of serving as mayor, and I leave with the very best wishes for the incoming administration."

DIES IN WEST

Mrs. Martha Edmonds Stricken At Home of Son In Seattle.

Word has reached Mansfield of the death in Seattle, Wash., of Mrs. Martha Edmonds. The widow of the late Rev. R. H. Edmonds, the first pastor of the Mayflower Congregational church, Mrs. Edmonds was stricken at the home of her son, Prof. R. H. G. Edmonds.

Rev. and Mrs. Edmonds lived in Mansfield from the time the Mayflower church was built until 1909.

DIES IN ASHLAND

Mrs. Nina McKinley Succumbs In Samaritan Hospital.

ASHLAND — Mrs. Nina McKinley, 35, wife of W. Bryan McKinley, died early today in Samaritan hospital.

Born in Butler, Mrs. McKinley had lived in Ashland for the past 14 years. Surviving besides her husband are two children, Merle and Miriam; two brothers, Boyd Kunkel of Butler and LeRoy Kunkel of Loudonville, and three sisters, Mrs. Goldie Hively of Amity, Mrs. Bernice Stull of Ashland, and Mrs. Blanche Stull of Perrysville.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Shaw funeral home with Rev. G. B. Wetherbee, pastor of the United Brethren church, officiating. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

MERRIMENT TO WELCOME 1938

night will be the annual New Year's dance of the Our club at the Leland ballroom where shimmering evening gowns and white ties and tails will add color to the gala scene.

The American Legion and the Loyal Order of Moose have arranged dances at their respective club homes. All of the theaters in the city will offer special midnight programs.

In keeping with the custom of holding "open house" on New Years day, scores of families will be home to friends and relatives, and the traditional eggnog parties will have a conspicuous place in these hospitable gatherings.

Four Mansfield fraternal organizations will have their annual "open house" for members and friends, the Elks club, the Legion, the Mystic club and the Knights of Columbus, all at their club homes.

PICK DIRECTORS

County Milk Producers Name Two New Board Members.

Five present members of the board were re-elected, with Walter Lemly of Fredericktown and W. T. Baker of Mt. Gilead named as new directors. They succeed A. E. Pugh of Weller township and G. A. Pifer of Franklin township.

Directors who were retained are Clarence Mowry, Springfield township, president; Avery Hale, Mifflin township, secretary and treasurer; V. R. Wolford, Butler township; L. B. Lantz, Franklin township, and A. L. Lockhart, of Lexington.

HONOR SCHOOL BAND DIRECTOR

School Musicians Stage Banquet For J. Merton Holcombe.

J. Merton Holcombe, director of the Senior high school band and the girls' bugle and drum corps, was honored at a banquet last night in the high school cafeteria, and attended by nearly 100 musicians.

Following the dinner, Holcombe was presented with a gold watch, chain, and pocket knife, by the three musical groups, in appreciation of his work with the organizations. The presentation was made by Miss Margaret Kochheiser, a member of the band.

Dinner was served at 6:30, and was fallowed by dancing in the gymnasium. Music was furnished by Harold Duda and his orchestra. The dinner was prepared by mothers of members of the three groups and was served by the students.

MACKEY NAMED PAROLE AGENT

O. S. R. Chaplain Appointed to $3,600 Post, Aid to Ohio Parole Chief.

ment today. Haslop told The News-Journal, "Mr. Mackey is a highly capable man, entirely familiar with parole work, as I learned on my many visits to the Mansfield Reformatory as a member of the parole board. I am sure he is going to do a fine job for the state in his new capacity."

Mackey came to the Reformatory just seven years ago tomorrow—on Jan. 1, 1931. During that time he has interviewed and helped no less than 10,000 new inmates, and has conducted probably 70,000 other routine interviews.

Mackey said today that he plans to keep his family in Mansfield probably until summer, since he will continue to spend part of his time in Mansfield, carrying on the chaplain's work. He is married and has three children.

Graduated from Asbury college, Wilmore, Ky., and ordained in the Methodist ministry, Mackey preached first at Old Washington, Gurensey county for two years. He then went to Columbia, in Lorain county for three years and was at Clyde a year. Transferred to Trinity Methodist church at Mt. Gilead, he was there only a few months when he accepted the post of chaplain here.

Farm Prices Drop But Income Rises, '37 Survey Shows

AGRICULTURE'S EARNINGS GO PAST 8 BILLION

NEW YORK — (AP) — Farmers the past year reaped the best dollar harvest since 1928.

Preliminary government estimates of farm income from 1937 indicated a total around $8,700,000,000, compared with $7,865,000,000 a year ago. This would approximately double 1932 receipts.

Government payments to farmers were sharply higher. Full-year estimates were about $375,000,000, against actual outlays a year ago of $287,000,000.

The 11 per cent gain in farm income over 1936 resulted largely from huge crops of various agricultural staples — cotton, wheat, corn and the like—that lifted total intake despite a drastic decline in average prices.

Prices Fall As Crops Rise.

The year was ushered in with quotations of the principal farm commodities high, and heading higher. The 1936 drought had sharply curtailed supplies of grain, livestock and other items. Domestic and world consumers were eager to bolster depleted stocks, and bids moved up steadily.

The upsurge was augmented somewhat by scattered indications of dryness during the spring. Rains came, however, and crop prospects began looking up. As commodity men stepped up estimates month after month, prices of most agricultural staples hit the toboggan.

Cotton crashed from above 15 cents a pound in the New York spot market to less than seven cents as experts placed the year's harvest at 18,700,000 bales—the largest ever grown. Never before in history had any crop yielded more than 18,000,000 bales. The 1936 total was 12,400,000.

With the wheat crop jumping from 626,000,000 bushels in 1936 to 887,000,000 bushels—roughly the level of the '20s—the Chicago price slid from $1.50 a bushel in the spring to less than $1.

Total Sales Higher.

Corn, the most important item on the livestock menu, dropped from $1.36 in April to under $1 a bushel at the recent low point.

The farmer, in other words, received a smaller income per unit produced, but sold a great deal more merchandise at these lower prices.

Livestock prices alone breasted the receding tide during the summer months. The Associated Press weighted index of animal quotations pushed steadily upward until mid-September.

The big corn crop, however, changed the picture. In about three months hogs slumped from $13 a hundred-weight to around $8.50, and cattle fell back from $19.50 to under $17.

Not That It Matters

—By JANE WILLIAMS

NOW the New Year reviving Old Desires, the Thoughtful Souls to Solitude retires—"

Which may have reflected the trend of the times when the Persian tentmaker wrote it 900 years ago, but Omar wotted not of the New Year of 1938.

In the first place Thoughtful Souls are practically extinct, and in the second place there isn't any solitude, what with the radio, the roar of traffic and the rumble of modern civilization. Instead of retiring to solitude, one is much more apt to whoop it up in a blatant night club or in the more conservative confines of a private home.

* * *

BUT the New Year does have a way of reviving Old Desires, doesn't it? If you are under 35 you wouldn't have noticed it however. But after that . . .

There's nothing like New Year's Eve for reviving Old Desires . . . Women remember their desire to grow old beautifully and determine anew that they'll watch their calories more carefully and keep at those facial massages more faithfully . . . Men are haunted by old ambitions. Some recall with a sigh that they once had eyes on a congressional chair, or dreamed of power and prestige and that the dream ended in a mediocre job which gives nothing more than a livelihood. . . .

* * *

ALL newspaper writers take time out on each New Year to sigh over the ghosts of Old Desires and to swear, by Allah's beard, that they'll start that Great Novel this year . . . Should have done it years ago, by golly . . . the years slipping by and here we are, still plugging away, writing drivel . . .

And oldish-young men, stuck in the rut of unsatisfactory jobs, will find a momentary flash of fire in the embers of long-ago-ambitions, and will decide—on New Year's Eve—that THIS is the year to make the break and try for something better.

But January will slip by so rapidly, and February is such a short month, and after March it's April and May, and then in June the year is half gone and the New Year is forgotten and Old Desires will have slipped back into the slough of procrastination. And next New Year's Eve there will be another revival.

But that's all. Nothing ever comes of it.

YET there are fortunate souls who arrive at exactly the destination for which they set out. Antonio, the most famous hair dresser in the world (and he was that even before he waved the smooth, shining locks of the Duchess of Windsor) is one of them.

It is rumored (perhaps it isn't true) that Antonio received $500 a day from the Chicago firm that brought him over here for a short engagement, for the sole purpose of creating new coiffeurs for dissatisfied ladies.

At any rate he told a Mansfield journalistic student, who interviewed him, that he had set a goal for himself—to be the "best in the world" at something. It happened to be hair dressing. The road to his goal was devious for he was a soldier in the black-shirted army of Italy when he made his resolve; a short, broad-shouldered, dark soldier, distinctly masculine in appearance. He took up bicycle racing for awhile, but the ex-soldier finally arrived at his calling.

AFTERTHOUGHTS: Last week was the first in more than seven years that Ye Olde Column was not published in a Mansfield sheet . . . The height of sincerity: the Mansfield union man who refused a drink of Scotch whiskey because it wasn't made in America . . . The very old lady who received a Christmas basket and in answer to our query as to whether she was going to have a nice Christmas answered promptly and warmly, "No I'm not and nobody gives a good g——d——." She was about 80 and had snow-white hair . . . The Boy Scouts who work like dogs on each year's Christmas basket distribution, and get so little credit . . . We couldn't put it over without them . . .

CUPID Has Wings: Abbie Dill, Cleveland girl who spent considerable time in Mansfield organizing the Mansfield Aeronautical association, piloted a plane down, to the Miami Air races went to a ball on Saturday night where she met George F. Haddaway (he had a way!), publisher of Southern Flight, aviation magazine, Fort Worth, Texas, went to dinner with him Sunday, luncheon and dinner again on Monday, and married him late that evening, routing out a clerk, a jeweler and a clergyman. She was still breathless when I met her in Cleveland this week, what with parting from her bridegroom to bring the plane back to Cleveland and making hurried plans to move to her new home in Fort Worth.

And I always thought "love at first sight" was something in a True Confession magazine.

Up and Down THE STREET

Ohio State university has gone and compiled some figures to show how many Buckeye grads have achieved fame, and finds that 307 have made "Who's Who in America." Of this number, the university reports, 110 achieved their fame in Ohio. It lists in that class Attorney John F. Kramer of Mansfield, who was the nation's first federal dry law enforcement chief.

Richland county hunters who go into the fields for a final march on the bunnies tomorrow will be identified by conspicuous license tags on their backs. Required under a state law, effective Jan. 1, the tags go with every hunting license sold and must be worn on the back of the hunter to show that he owns a license. The tags, printed in black ink on white celluloid, are about three by four inches in size and carry serial letters and numbers similar to auto license plates. The distinction of being the first hunter in the city to receive one of these new labels went to William Sarafino, 167 Grace street.

* * *

There was at least one bright smile at City building this morning to penetrate the gloom occasioned by a number of persons leaving their jobs. While others were saying goodbye, W. K. Mackey, chaplain of the Ohio State Reformatory, popped in to several offices to say goodbye too, for this is his last official day at the penal institution. But there was no gloom in his farewell, for he goes to a new state job tomorrow, and one in which he is intensely interested, that of general parole agent for Ohio.

WORKERS CAN CHEER THIS-1938 TO HAVE 4 'DOUBLE HOLIDAYS'

Workers who look to the calendar to break the monotony of the year with occasional "double holidays," can take on peak at 1938 and cheer.

Because there are four "double holidays" next year; four "little vacations" to which workers can look forward. The first one occurs Memorial day, May 30, which falls on Monday, and the second one is July 4, which always falls on the same day of the week as Memorial day.

These will give workers Sunday and Monday, while those who have Saturdays off — including students—will have a three-day vacation.

Labor day, as always, is on Monday, and in 1938 it comes on Sept. 5, so that there will be the same interlude as on the first two double holidays.

There is nothing that can be done about Thanksgiving day because it is set for the last Thursday in November—which is on Nov. 24 in 1938.

Christmas lands on Sunday, but generally will be observed on Monday, so again there will be a double holiday. And of course the same days will be in effect for New Year day of 1939.

Other holidays — even though they don't mean a vacation—are Easter which is April 17 next year, with the beginning of Lent preceding it on Mar. 2. Halloween falls on Monday night, Oct. 30, and Armistice day will be on a Friday.

The two most important birthday anniversaries, Lincoln's on Feb. 12 is a Saturday, and Washington's on Feb. 22 falls on Tuesday. Columbus day, Oct. 12, hits the calendar on a Wednesday.

Maybe we shouldn't mention it, but election day is all set for Tuesday, Nov. 8.

MEETINGS SET

City Banks to Elect 1938 Officers In January.

The first 11 days of the new year will see all four Mansfield banks holding their annual stockholders' and directors' meetings, as well as election of officers.

The Farmers Savings and Trust company will hold the first of the four meetings, on Jan. 5 at 3 p. m. The Richland Trust company meetings are set for Jan. 8 at 2 p. m. Meetings of the Mansfield Savings and Trust National bank and the Citizens National bank are scheduled for Jan. 11, with the former institution's meeting set for 10:30 a. m., and the latter's for 2 p. m.

In all cases, meetings of the stockholders will be followed by directors, at which officers will be elected.

DEATH CLAIMS S. S. MANN, 74

Ashlander, Ill Three Weeks, Dies At Home of Son.

ASHLAND—Silas Sanford Mann, 74, died here Thursday evening at the home of his son, Thomas Sanford, following an illness of three weeks.

Born in Kirby, O., Mr. Mann had been employed at Dr. Hess and Clark Inc., here for the past 14 years.

Surviving are two brothers, George G. of Canton, and J. Austin Mann of West Salem; two sisters, Mrs. Susan Hardy of West Salem, and Mrs Holda Young of Wooster; three sons, Thomas of Ashland, Jesse of near Ashland, and Robert of Jackson, Mich., and three daughters, Mrs. Bessie Swaysgood of Polk, Mrs. Mary Truax of Greenwich, and Mrs. Ruth Clark of near Ashland.

Funeral services will be held at 12:30 p. m. Sunday at the Shaw funeral home with Rev. A. A. Hunter, pastor of the Ashland Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be at Upper Sandusky.

CHINESE FLEE TSINGTAO RUINS

City's Japanese Property Is Destroyed, Dynamite Squads Join Retreating Army.

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Chinese devastation squads marched out of Isingtao today, leaving undefended the once-rich North China seaport marked for conquest by advancing Japanese armies.

A corps of foreign vigilantes armed with clubs attempted to maintain order in the city, from which an exodus of Americans and other foreigners was under way.

When Chinese police started leaving, however, looters ran into the Japanese business section. They ransacked what Japanese property had not been destroyed in nearly two weeks of systematic dynamiting. Chief aim of the foreign vigilantes was to prevent damage to foreign property.

Only two hours before the devastation squads of soldiers and marines followed General Shen Hung Lieh out of the city, word reached Shanghai that Chinese legions 100 miles to the west were fighting desperately to stem the Japanese advance long enough for destruction of Japanese Tsingtao properties to be completed.

DAVEY DOESN'T WANT 'HONEST' STATE INQUIRY, SENATOR SAYS

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(AP)— Dan Parkinson, jr., assistant sergeant-at-arms of the Ohio senate, served a subpoena today on Francis W. Poulson, Democratic state chairman, requiring him to appear Monday before a senate committee investigating alleged "legalized graft" in the state government.

COLUMBUS— (AP) —Verner E. Metcalf of Marietta, Republican floor leader in the Ohio senate, asserted today on the heels of indefinite suspension of a state liquor department inspector, that "I do not think" Gov. Martin L. Davey "wants any kind of an honest, impartial investigation" of state departments.

Assailing the governor's promise to demand that a nine-member commission replace the senate committee investigating alleged "legalized graft" in Davey's administration, Metcalf in a formal statement said:

"The governor well knows that he can not control the senate investigating committee. So he now proposes that a new, extra-legal committee be named, including members who are indebted politically to him.

"The people of Ohio aren't interested in what another Davey-Poulson whitewash commission will find," he asserted. Francis W. Poulson is state Democratic chairman.

Suspension of the state employe—Willard V. Archer of Belle Valley in Noble county—was announced late yesterday by Alfred Humphrey, chief of the enforcement division of the department of liquor control, who said he did not learn until a week ago that Archer had operated a liquor agency and worked as a liquor inspector at the same time in asserted violation of the state law.

Archer, 35-year-old non-practicing attorney, had testified at the first hearing of the senate committee that he had held both positions and former Sen. James Metzenbaum, committee counsel, introduced vouchers to show that Archer had received a total compensation of more than $12,000 in less than two years.

Humphrey announced also that he would obtain a transcript of committee testimony concerning Joseph Maiden, jr., of Lorain, district supervisor for the liquor department in the Canton district.

Three Canton hotel managers testified that Maiden had presented "forged" or "raised" hotel receipts on his expense account for which Maiden testified he had been reimbursed by the state. Metzenbaum said the amount exceeded several hundred dollars.

BANK CLEARINGS $21,000,000 GREATER DESPITE RECESSION

Despite the business and industrial blight which slowed down the city's economic wheels late in the year, Mansfield's bank clearing for 1937 moved upward to top the 1936 totals by more than $21,000,000.

The clearings, which closely followed the national business chart in its fluctuations throughout the year, gained enough momentum before October to lift the 1937 figure to $101,532,727, the best mark in eight years.

Figures released today by Dale Kaylor, secretary of the Clearing House association, were incomplete, however, and Kaylor said the totals for the year would approach $102,000,000 when the final check is made.

All of the margin over last year's clearings was built up before October, since the monthly figures during the last quarter have shown a slight decline from the same period in 1936, Kaylor's report showed.

November and December were the slowest months from the standpoint of currency handled by the city's four banks, while March and April, which saw the prosperity move at its peak, were by far the brightest months of 1937. April figures went to $10,019,735 for the second best month in the city's history. It was overshadowed only by October, 1929.

The month just ending produced approximately $7,200,000 as compared with the $8,736,855 chalked up in December last year.

The last quarter recession blasted the city bank officials' hopes of a record year which had shown every evidence of fulfillment up to October. Had the early season rate of increase been maintained, the 1937 total would have topped the 1929 figure by a wide margin, the year's report indicated.

PLANS FUTURE

Father at 13 Says He'll Wed Girl, 12, Despite Laws.

LINTON, Ind.— (U.P.) — Tommy Chapman, a father at the age of 13, promised today that, despite laws or public opinion, distance or time, he will marry his schoolgirl sweetheart, a child of 12 and the mother of his baby.

The young father, somewhat shaken by the furor he has caused in this small mining community, soberly made plans for the future of the baby and its mother, pretty, slender Betty June Lacer.

"I love Betty," he said, "and we're going to be married. Maybe we'll go to another state. If not, we'll wait right here until we're old enough.

SPIKES RUMORS

Davey Says He Won't Ban 'Future Plans' At Banquet.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Putting to rest persistent rumors, Governor Davey today said he does not intend to announce his future plans at the Jackson Day dinner here Jan. 8.

It had been said in political circles that the governor would announce his candidacy for a third term at the celebration.

HUMAN BODY TO SERVE AS YOUTH FORUM'S TOPIC

Physicians to Lead Discussion Sunday at Meeting at First Presbyterian Church.

Two Mansfield physicians will lead a discussion on the subject, "The Anatomy and Physiology of The Human Body," at a meeting of the Christian Youth Forum Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian church.

The speakers will be Dr. W. E. Wygant and Dr. D. Dalton Deeds. The physicians will address the young people in a body, and will also lead a discussion for boys and one for girls.

Subjects dealing with community, social and international problems, as well as social and mental hygiene problems, are discussed at the meetings.

A fellowship program and devotional service will be held at 6 p. m., and will be followed at 7 p. m. by the discussion period. Janet Kelly will have charge of the fellowship program, and Mary Werner will be in charge of the devotional service.

PRESENT MUSIC PROGRAM

A program of choir and organ music will be given during the Sunday morning worship service at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The choir will sing "Send Out Thy Light," by Gounod, and Mrs. Robert VanTilburg, appearing as guest soloist, will sing "O Divine Redeemer," by Gounod.

Organ selections to be played by Lawrence Frank, minister of music, include "Cavating," by Ruff, and "Priesto March" by Mendelssohn. For the offertory he will play a medley of favorite hymns.

Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor, will preach on the subject, "The Borrowed Ax."

WOOLLCOTT'S 'READER' TOPS LIBRARY LIST

Latest Volume of Short Stories By Fannie Hurst Among Other Additions.

Heading the list of new books available at Mansfield Public library this week is Alexander Woollcott's "Second Reader" which contains the works of 21 authors, including Willa Cather, Clarence Day and Robert Louis Stevenson.

It includes eight books originally published separately, a ghost story, a mystery, a biography, and 19 original contributions by Woollcott himself.

Another addition is "Free Speech and Plain Language," a collection of essays reflecting some of the main current of American thought and written by Albert Jay Nock over a period of seven years.

Edwin Valentine Mitchell describes the pre-automobile days in his "Horse and Buggy Age in New England," and "Proletarian Journey," autobiography of Fred E. Beal, is the life history of an avowed communist.

Series of Short Stories.

Fannie Hurst's latest volume of short stories, "We Are Ten" is outstanding among additions of fiction. Simply written, they eloquently express the basic human emotions.

Two volumes dealing with mountain folk also are included. "Shadows Slant North" by Mary Bledsoe tells of plucky, warm-hearted Judith Harbord who out of devotion to her family denies herself marriage to Luke Caudill, the man she loves. The other volume, "All Cats Are Gray" by Charles G. Givens deals with the region about Tirus, Tenn., of which Givens is a native.

Other fiction added includes: "Though Time Be Fleet" by Andrus; "No House of Peace" by Connor; "Guns of Silver Valley" by Scott and "Dead Men Are Dangerous" by Weston.

Other non-fiction includes: "Practical Aspects of Psychoanalysis" by Kubie. "Civil Engineering Handbook" by Urquhart. "City Planning, Housing, Vol. 1 Historical and Sociological" by Hegemann. "Whittling and Woodcarving" by Tangerman.

Pastor to Speak On City's Four Outstanding Sins

When Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church, opens a series of sermons Sunday evening on the most common sins, he will speak on topics chosen by his congregation.

Members of the church were asked to check off the sins in which they considered the order of their awfulness.

Rev. Swoyer has entitled the four sermons, "The Four Outstanding Sins in Mansfield." The first to be discussed at 7:30 p. m. Sunday will be on "Gossip."

Others in the series will be "Selfishness," "Feeling" and "Medley of Sins."

GO TO ISALY'S FOR Your

Year That Dies Tonight Passed Quietly In City

Few Major News 'Breaks' Developed During 1937, Survey of Past 12 Months Shows; Traffic Toll Sets New Record.

One short word seems to tell the story of the news in Mansfield during 1937—quiet.

Where in other years there have been startling stories, stories of economic and social importance, the year that dies tonight failed to develop events of that calibre in the main.

Since events are important chiefly in their relation to other events, there were, of course, outstanding events in 1937.

There was labor trouble, there was a business boom, followed by the recession that struck the entire nation in the closing months of the year. But the labor trouble was not of a serious nature, and the recession hit Mansfield more lightly than it hit many other cities.

There was a record number of traffic fatalities in the county—29 persons losing their lives on Richland highways.

Street cars vanished from the city streets, to be replaced by the more modern type of transportation, buses. There was an infantile paralyis scare, but it turned out to be far less serious than the typhoid outbreak of the preceding year.

Mansfield factories built additions, improved their equipment and hummed to the tune of good business early in the year. The hum was gone, though, in the closing months of the year.

Reaper Takes Toll.

Death took, as it always does, its toll. Frank B. Black, chairman of the board of the Ohio Brass company, and one of the city's wealthiest men, died as he rode a horse on his spacious estate. Others who left the Mansfield scene were Fred Hunt, veteran news dealer and a colorful figure in the city for years; Edwin L. Ford, superintendent of parks, three Mansfield veterans of the Civil war—LeRoy Parsons, S. Fin Bell and Amos Foster and many others, including Richmond Smith, William B. Martin, hardware company head; Solomon Aby, the county's "No. 1 taxpayer," and Bert E. Kuhn, former county commissioner.

There was crime in the picture—but none of major violence and not a single murder.

There was an attempt to solve the traffic problem, which grew steadily worse as the year wore on, but little was accomplished.

The weather—always a good story—acted up on a couple of instances, nearly flooding the city with one heavy rainstorm, and attempting to blow it apart with a miniature cyclone — or what seemed like one. It got cold and it got hot, too.

The city had a municipal election, in which Claude M. Hunter was elected mayor over Glenn L. Bierly, but it didn't make much fuss, and developed no fireworks.

All in all, Mansfield had a rather quiet year. Following is a chronological account of some of the year's more important events:

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER XX

The next morning Brenda called Karen and said that she would stop at the apartment and that they would go to the theater together. Later, wearing a dark suit and twin fox furs, she came into the shabby little apartment for the first time. Riding to the theater, Karen told her about Bill and Roxanne.

"And now you're alone?" Brenda asked. "And you've earned almost nothing since you've been here. Come and live with me, Karen. At least for a while."

She knew that alone Karen would think of Philip too much.

"You're on steps that are leading you up, my dear. Some day quite soon, I hope, you'll have an apartment of your own with everything just as you want it. I'd like to have you with me. Pack your things tonight and come."

Then she asked, "Did you enjoy Craig last night?"

"It was one of the nicest evenings I've ever had. You're sure I won't be in the way, that I. . . ."

Brenda laughed. "You'll be good for me. I'll be good for you. I'll teach you everything I know. You don't know what finding you has done for me Karen." She frowned. "Oh, I nearly forgot. Do you remember Helene Ward? She's in town again and having a party. She heard that you were my protegee and invited you. Let me buy you a new frock and find a young man to take you?"

Did she remember? She would never forget Mrs. Ward's cold scrutiny of the cheap little gray suit and her feeble smile. Nor would she ever forget the tall dark woman in red who had asked mockingly, "Since when had Philip Ashley taken to picking up girls?" And the man's reply, "Since Lilyan Kane went to London." And now Helene Ward had invited her.

Brenda said, "I'm sure Philip and Lilyan will be there. I thought you'd like to meet Lilyan. You'll like her. You'll like her so much you won't be jealous of her. Usually you think that the man you love is being coerced into marriage by a scheming, selfish girl. But not in this case. Lilyan is a charming and lovely person."

• • •

Later that day she went with Brenda into the exclusive shop where Brenda bought her clothes. Many times she had passed it and looked in, thinking of herself as a hungry child staring in a bakery window. And now after today she was going to live with Brenda.

Suddenly she remembered what Jerry Forbes had said in the long ago of June that Sunday afternoon when she told she was going to New York to go on the stage: "New York. Anything can happen there."

It was Roxanne's wedding day. Karen had a clear picture of a living room in an old brick house in Richmond and of Bill and Roxanne before a clergyman while Bill's parents looked on happily. They had their son—their son who could see! Now they had a daughter, not the kind of daughter they had wished for. But their son had fallen in love with a blond night club girl and they accepted her because he loved her.

Brenda said, smiling, "I'll never forget your little gray-chiffon frock made of pleats, Karen. It served you well when you sang on the hotel roof. It nearly cost Tommy a wife because it was so becoming to you. He couldn't resist sending real violets." She turned to the saleswoman. "Have you something in red chiffon?" Looking back at Karen she laughed. "Humor me and let me pick out your new frock. I'd like to see heads turn when you arrive at Helene's."

"They did the last time," Karen said with a smile. "They were laughing at me."

"You'll have the proverbial last laugh this time, darling! I'd like for Philip to see you looking your loveliest. I'd like for him to think he is meeting you for the first time. That's cruel to Lilyan isn't it? But I'd so much like for Philip to fall in love with you. You're an actress. You can say you're an actress now. You and Philip, the Playwright, would make such a perfect combination."

A red chiffon dress, the sort of dress Karen had always dreamed about, was brought in.

"It's perfect for you," Brenda said. "And now some gold sandals. I'm sentimental about golden slippers."

When the girl left, Karen asked, "What have I done to deserve this?" Brenda's generosity and kindness embarrassed her.

And Brenda's smile was suddenly sad.

"Because you are you, Karen. And never ask me that again."

Seeing the girl come back with the gold sandals, she laughed and said, "You have such ridiculously small feet and these slippers will make them look even smaller."

And Karen knew she said that because she wished to avoid being questioned.

• • •

Brenda insisted on returning to the apartment with her while she packed her things and even assisted with the packing. How cheap and shabby she must think her clothes, Karen thought.

As she took Aunt Hetty's photograph from the desk, Brenda asked, "Who is that?"

"That's Aunt Hetty who adopted me."

"You never called her 'Mother'?"

"She wouldn't let me. She didn't think she had the right to be called that. But my own mother couldn't have been better to me. I think that my being the daughter of an actress appealed to her. She had a dull, unexciting life but she got the most happiness from small things and helping other people."

"You've told me about your mother, the little you know of her, Karen. Have you ever thought about your father?"

"Only a little. I suppose I've thought of my mother because people in Harriston saw her and remembered her. They said she was very beautiful."

"I'm sure she was. Let's—let's hurry a bit and get through."

Gray-haired, motherly Mrs. Reid, Brenda's servant for many years, opened the doom of Brenda's apartment.

"Miss Mallare is coming to live with us for a while," Brenda said.

With pleased eyes Karen looked at the room. How incongruous her cheap and shabby clothes would be here! Again she wanted to ask, "What have I done to deserve this?" But the question would make Brenda smile her wistful smile again.

"I won't be able to sleep for admiring the room," Karen said

Brenda did not look at her when she said, "I'd like you to feel that you have come home at last, Karen. Feel that this is your home for as long as you wish it to be. You deserve it."

• • •

Helene Ward's party was on Saturday night; the play opened in Baltimore on Monday.

In a dull white crepe dress, Brenda came to Karen's room on Saturday evening. And in the ivory colored room Karen was like a flame in her red dress, she thought. Her black hair with its definite center part shone. Brenda thought but decided not to tell her how lovely she was tonight. She thought of Philip who created beauty in his work. And tonight Karen was no longer a shabby frightened, defiant girl in cheap clothes who had amused him that first night when he had been bored and impatient because Lilyan was away. Tonight Karen had beauty and poise and the position that Brenda had made possible for her. Steps going up, she thought again.

"I hope you'll like Tony Cannon," she said. "He's Tommy's type. Fun, but not to be taken seriously. Tommy has settled down, hasn't he? I like your dress, don't you?"

Karen looked at herself in the long mirror.

"Cinderella must have felt like this."

Craig and Tony Cannon who was like Tommy, blond and rich wisecracking, came. But Craig was a frequent visitor and Karen felt completely at ease with him, feeling that she had known him all her life.

When Craig said, "Penthouse," to the elevator boy, Karen remembered her first visit to Helene Ward's on her second night in New York. So much had happened since that night! She had been in the depths and on heights.

Red-haired Helene Ward in blue velvet met them.

Brenda said, "Do you remember Karen Mallare?"

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1937.

Drive carefully tonight—and if it's to be a drinking party take a taxi.

In all probability the supply of good resolutions will never be equal to the demand.

If the darkest hour is just before the dawn, maybe 1938 will be a good year after all. Anyhow, let's try to make it so.

City Administration Changes.

OVER the week-end Mansfield will have another change of city administration, with Claude M. Hunter assuming the office of mayor.

As a member of city council, and as president of that body, Mr. Hunter has had opportunity, through a number of years, to become familiar with the processes of municipal government and to gain acquaintance with the duties and responsibilities of the chief executive.

Nomination and election of Mr. Hunter to the office of mayor evidences a feeling of confidence on the part of a majority of Mansfield voters that he will, to the best of his ability, endeavor to perform the duties of his office in an honest and creditable manner.

It appears, in various appointments announced within the past couple of weeks, that Mr. Hunter has acted conscientiously in choosing men whom he believes to be qualified, by experience and training, to satisfactorily perform the work that will devolve upon them.

As Mayor-elect Hunter takes up his new duties he may feel assured of the well-wishes of many friends, whose hope is that he will fully measure up to the large responsibilities of his position and that his administration will reflect credit on Mansfield and contribute to this city's further advancement as a desirable community in which to live and to rear a family.

Thoughtful Act Benefits School.

THAT was a thoughtful and kindly act of the late Dr. William C. Kendig of Cincinnati—bequeathing $5,000 for the construction and maintenance of an athletic field at Hayesville school.

As a former resident of Hayesville it is entirely likely that Dr. Kendig retained a friendly interest in that village and also realized the difficulties encountered by a small village in securing school funds beyond essential needs.

Hayesville attained educational prominence almost a century ago, by the founding of Vermillion Institute, which was attended by many men who later attained prominence, including former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene.

The memory of some men lives long after they have passed away, as a result of bequests intended to benefit others—or of gifts made during their lifetime.

The Governor Should Be Told.

WHILE Governor Martin L. Davey's announced intention to demand a sweeping investigation of "everything and everybody" seems to cover unnecessarily large territory, there is apparent justification for a fearless and thorough investigation of several state departments.

Revelations already made by a special senate committee investigating charges of "legal graft" in connection with the state liquor department serve to strengthen a quite general belief that this department has been shot through with crookedness.

As the responsible head of the state's liquor business, it is only fair to Governor Davey that he should be informed of any questionable practices that might serve to detract from the high ethical standards that may reasonably be expected of all persons associated with this important department of state government.

With assurance that men of fine character and impeccable honesty are in charge of the liquor business in Ohio it may eventually result that advancement will again be made to the relative idealism of the old-time saloon.

Lynching Is On the Decline.

A GRATIFYING commentary on the progress of civilization in the United States is found in the few lynchings that occur in a year, as compared with the period preceding 1900 when the lynchings for a single year quite consistently ran above one hundred and in 1892 reached the black record of 231.

Figures gathered by F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, show a total of 8 lynchings in 1937—exactly the same as in 1936.

Except for an occasional reversion, the past 37 years have been marked by a consistent decline in the number of lynchings. It is interesting to note that all eight of the 1937 lynchings were in southern states, the record being Alabama, one; Florida, three; Georgia, one; Mississippi, two; Tennessee, one.

From this showing it would appear that even those states in which lynching was resorted to with considerable frequency in earlier years have established law and order to the extent of abolishing this manifestation of barbarity.

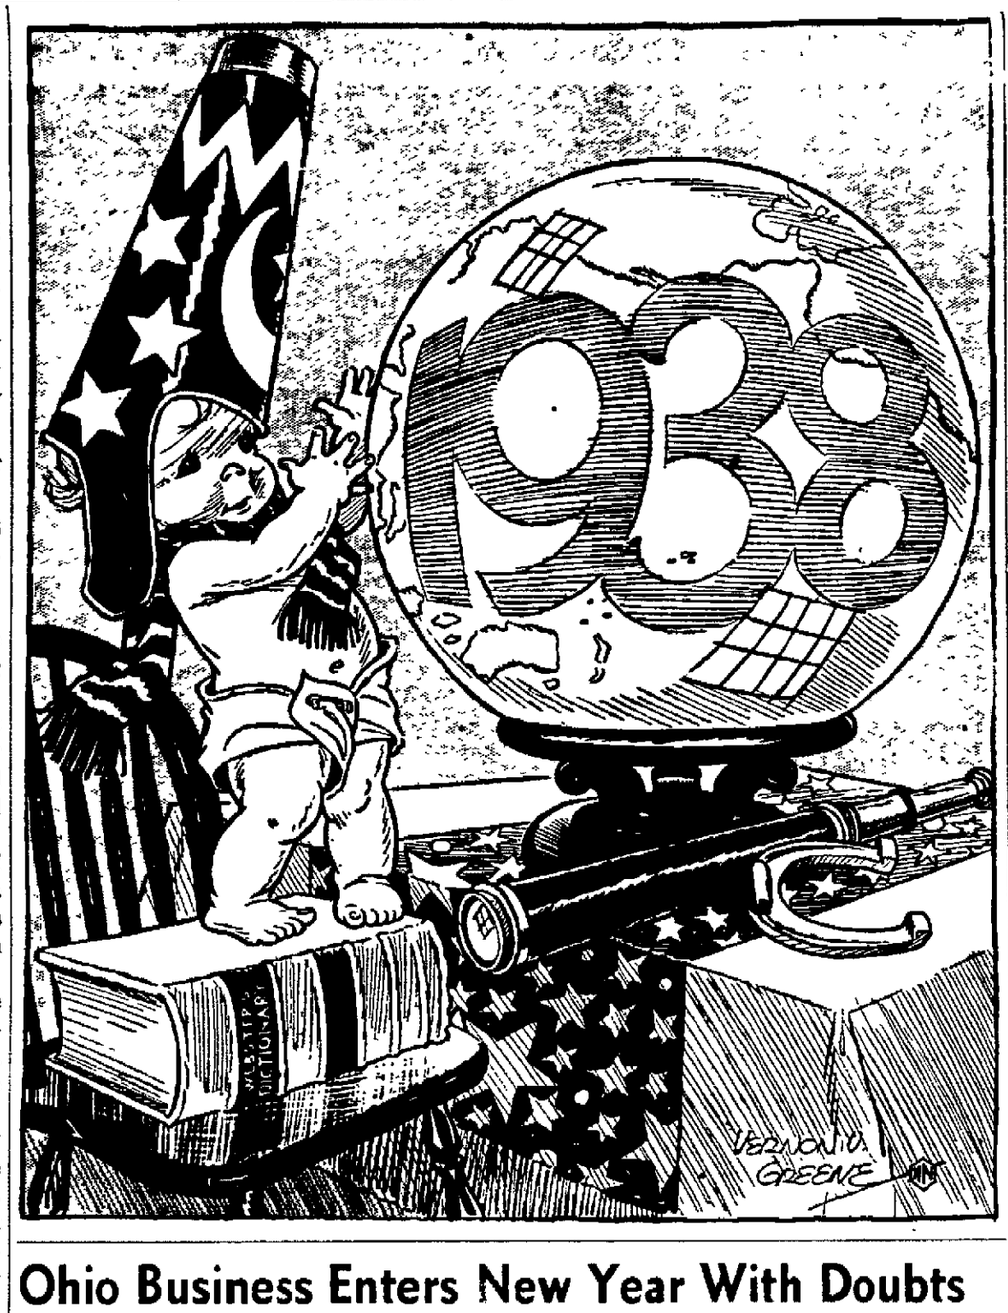
Eventual Chinese Victory.

SPEAKING to an American correspondent in his hide-out somewhere in the upper Yangtse valley, Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek declares his faith in ultimate victory for the Chinese. "Tell America," he says, "to have complete confidence in us. The tide of battle is turning and victory eventually will be ours."

Yes, probably it will. China has always won in the end. But usually it has been through patience and the operation of natural forces. Again and again, she has defeated her conquerors as a big fish defeats a little fish—by swallowing and digesting them.

The Chinese might defeat the Japanese now, if Russia could and would come to their aid quickly in great strength. But Russia, though eager to help, and possessing far greater military resources than China, also moves slowly.

Without more speed from her Red ally than China has any apparent reason to expect, and without a quicker collapse of Japanese militarism from lack of money and materials than now seems likely, the victory that Chiang Kai Shek speaks of may not come for a generation or two.



Ohio Business Enters New Year With Doubts

—By RAY BLOSSER

CLEVELAND — Ohio business approached the new year with forecasts of uncertainty — but with knowledge that 1937 generally surpassed 1936.

Final figures were unavailable, but reports of Ohio State university's bureau of business research and the Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland indicated today

That the humming activity carrying through mid-summer wrote figures which will not be erased by a recession that developed in the fall and moved into 1938,

That lake shiping, industry generally, employment, pay rolls, electric power, retail trade and bank debits were substantially above 1936 in Ohio

The construction industry, held by many economists to be the key to recovery, made one of the best showings of any type of Ohio business in 1937 over 1936, preliminary estimates indicated.

Contract awards dropped sharply in October, but the value of contracts in the first 10 months was 34 per cent above 1936 and construction employment was up 50 per cent.

Total employment for the state in the same period was 11 per cent above 1936, but this figure was expected to be lowered when November and December employment reports were completed. Employment in those two months fell far under that in November and December, 1936.

Operations slumped worst in Ohio's basic industries—iron and steel, coal, and rubber — after operations during the first half of the year had risen to near-prosperity heights

* * *

THE STEEL INDUSTRY will show a national production of about 50 million tons of steel ingots, compared with 54 millions in the record year of 1929 and 46 millions in 1936, said spokesmen for the magazine, Steel.

Ohio's steel production centers — Cleveland, Lorain, Youngstown, Steubenville, Canton, Portsmouth and Middletown—followed the national trend closely, except for curtailment of production during last summer's steel strike, observers reported.

The strike, called by the steel workers organizing committee, (a committee for industrial organization affiliate) in an attempt to enforce demands for signed contracts from Republic Steel corporation, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, was Ohio's major labor difficulty of the year Some 46,000 workers were affected for more than a month at Canton, Massillon, Warren, Cleveland and Youngstown.

The strike began the night of May 25 and lost effectiveness late in June. National guardsmen called out by Gov. Martin L. Davey to preserve the "status quo" were ordered to protect workers later for reopening of the mills when peace negotiations failed Surveys indicated most of the men returned to work. Ohio's steel strike toll was five killed.

In point of numbers, Ohio's other major walkout was the Firestone Tire & Rubber company strike at Akron, where about 10,000 employes were idle from March 11 until April 30 over CIO rubber workers' demands for recognition as bargaining agency.

The union gained recognition in a contract which provided a standard work week of not more than 36 hours—believed by some labor observers to be the shortest standard week in a major industry.

Other labor difficulties included laundry and grocery strikes in Cincinnati and a jurisdictional dispute at the Spicer Manufacturing company plant in Toledo.

* * *

HOLIDAY SHOPPING, based on figures extending until a week before Christmas, generally disappointed retail trade experts, who said failure of "luxury items" to move caused estimates of December business to fall below 1936. For the year, however, retail trade still was expected to be above last year. In Cleveland, for example, preliminary estimates indicated a figure of 9.6 to 10 per cent above 1936, November and December pulling down the 11 per cent margin of the first 10 months

Federal Reserve figures for the first 10 months showed bank debits at 15 per cent over 1936. Dun and Bradstreet recorded Ohio commercial failures as 13 per cent over last year. The state's electric power production was up 9 per cent, according to federal power commission reports.

New Year's Wishes

For Uncle Sam, a balanced budget
For the nation, plenty of work.
For business and government, peace.
For industry and labor, understanding.
For Japan, moderation.
For China, strength to resist.
For John Bull, completion of his navy.
For Spain, riddance of foreign meddlers.
For Germany, sanity.
For Italy, the same.
For Russia, tolerance.
For American neighbors, unity.
For our own people, ditto.

Timely Editorial

Another Vanishing American.

Col. H. P. Sheldon of the bureau of biological survey is authority for the statement that the scarecrow, traditional guardian of the American cornfield, has practically joined the wooden cigar store Indian in oblivion.

There was a time when every well regulated farm had its scarecrow. Picturesquely the flapping figure stood, ragged coat tails fluttering in the breeze, empty sleeves extended in a warning gesture, battered hat rakishly askew. And the crows simply loved to come and roost on its shoulder.

Except for being a convenient depository of worn out clothing, it is doubtful if the scarecrow was ever of much use Certainly the wise old crow held it in no dread, and if anyone regrets its passing it probably will be the crows themselves who will miss a familiar and friendly figure.—Kansas City Star.

You Make Your Own "Breaks."

ANOTHER New Year coming along!

So many desires, so many resolutions, springing again in your tired, suspicious spirit! So much furious hope that you'll "get your break at last!" . . .

Yet, tucking in beside the resolutions, ready for instant use—the same old score of excuses and alibis!

New Year ahead! What will it bring? And whose fault will it be if it doesn't? The Other Fellow's? Some outer circumstance over which you had no control . . . bad breaks you couldn't buck . . . will these cause your failure and frustration in the year that opens tomorrow? Will defeat come from OUTSIDE? Or is there another danger you need to face? Think . . . listen . . .

STONE was dying. Dying a hideous, mysterious death.

(You'll find the story in Dorothy L. Sayers' "Omnibus of Crime.")

What lay behind that closely guarded tent in the black heart of the African jungle? Nobody knew. Dusky Zanzibar and Mang-Battu bearers might come slinking through the night, peering, sniffling—their great nostrils quivering like curious beasts. But no one knew. Not even Etcham, the Englishman, Stone's devoted friend, could tell the meaning of the thing he had seen.

Panting, exhausted, Etcham rested after a five days' incredible trek for help. And the other Englishman—their hunting trip interrupted—listened. Stone dying? But why? What were the symptoms? Coma . . . fever . . . some strange and frantic urge which forced him to hide within his tent, forbidding anyone to follow. And carbuncles—only they weren't carbuncles. But whatever they were, Stone was dying of them.

A crazy explanation. But there was agony in Etcham's eyes. So the others had followed. Come at last to the camp. Seen Stone lying in a stupor, his huge, collapsing body bound in bandages.

The wounds? They told nothing. Strange bulgings, here and there, on the body, "as though something hard and blunt were being pushed up through the healthy flesh."

Nothing to do but wait. So the night had come . . . and with the night, the two voices, as Etcham had said there would be . . . two voices speaking together, pleading, sneering, arguing, screeching, out of the tent where only one man lay in deadly stupor.

Two voices speaking out of Stone's body! They could not believe it! But they had crept nearer . . . then they had seen.

The bulgings had broken, one after another. And out of them had come—incredible awfulness!—little heads! Little savage heads . . . low browed, beastial . . . gibbering, screeching! Heads that, at first, Stone had tried to cut off with his razor. But they had come again . . . and again . . . and again. Heads, arms, clawing hands . . . forming within, bursting out of Stone's body. Secret horror—long concealed—bursting at last through the haunted flesh.

So this was it! This was the secret horror that was killing the man they had loved! Someone had wished it on him . . . some foul devil! But he should not conquer! His friends would save him!

Eagerly they rushed forward—knives in hand. But even as they slashed at the horror, Stone spoke . . . "Let me be! Let me die in my own way . . . You can cut off ten, a hundred, a thousand heads, but the curse you cannot take off . . . The curse is not put on me; it grew out of me. Even now I go!"

And with that admission, he wrenched—twisted to his side—was dead.

* * *

NEW YEAR'S DAY. So many dreams . . . so many dreads—so many excuses if your dreams do not come true.

But the excuses will be in vain. There is only one reason for weakness, and the failure that follows weakness. Like Stone's curse, it is "not put on you, it grows out of you." Grows out in all its vicious horror . . . out of your hidden savagery, your cowardice and greed, your fear and dishonesty.

New Year's day!

What will come out of it?

WHATEVER YOU PUT INTO IT.

Health Advice

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND—

Neuralgia Is Common In Winter.

THIS IS the season when people have neuralgia. Like neuritis, arthritis and chronic rheumatism, it makes its presence known in damp and bad weather.

What we call neuralgia is sometimes no more than a vague and annoying feeling of discomfort. As the name indicates, it is a pain in a nerve. One or more nerves may be involved, but usually it is confined to one.

There is always congestion of the affected nerve. Many theories have been advanced concerning neuralgia and its actual causes. Frequently it is associated with some center or focus of infection within the body.

Those who have repeated colds, tonsilitis and nasal sinusitis frequently suffer from neuralgic pain. At times it accompanies some constitutional disorder. Elderly persons are more likely to have it than those in the prime of life.

Strange as it may seem, no actual swelling, deformity or abnormality can be detected. The sufferer complains of nothing more than a pain. This may be of a throbbing nature and sometimes is so severe as to require the administration of an opiate.

Occurs Anywhere.

The pain is found along the course of a nerve, usually in the face, head, neck or shoulder. But it may occur anywhere in the body.

In what I have said, it is plain that at times it may be difficult to distinguish severe neuralgia from some form of neuritis, which is the name given inflammation of a nerve. The latter is caused by an infection. Neuralgia must be distinguished from arthritis which has a pain associated with a joint. Rheumatism is pain associated with a muscle.

Because of this confusion, it is always best to consult with a doctor. If the pain persists, do not trust to self-diagnosis and self-treatment Let your physician first determine all the facts of the case so that the needed treatment can be outlined. What may be beneficial in the relief of an attack of arthritis may be of little or no aid in controlling neuralgia.

The occurrence of any pain, regardless of how mild or trivial it may seem, is a warning sign given by Mother Nature. Neglect may prove dangerous because it may be the forerunner of something, a disease which, if neglected, may run into an incurable form.

ALL of US

The New Pup.

There's a new pup in our house and he owns it from the front door to the kitchen.

He's a nine-month-old cocker spaniel, mostly white, but with beautiful brown patches—and his ears are long, brown, silky things that drag on the ground when he trails. The people who had him before us called him Flush because of the dog in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" that belonged to Elizabeth Barrett Browning. But we thought of all the cocker spaniels in the world called Flush and changed his name to Freckles. He doesn't mind. He answers to Freckles just as well as he did to Flush. I mean he answers when the lady of the house calls him; he never answers at all when I call him Because she's the one he loves. She's the one he saw first, she feeds him, she washes him, she combs him, and so he spends most of his time alongside of her. When she sits he sticks his affectionate nose on her knee, and if she leaves the room he follows right along . . . I don't count and he isn't my dog

He has a sweet disposition with only one fault. He's selfish. When he's eating one bone he snarls if you go near his plate or dare to touch one of the bones he isn't eating at the moment I think he was teased when he was a puppy and I think also that it's a dirty shame to do that to a sweet-dispositioned animal like Freckles.

We leave Freckles in the kitchen at night and he doesn't like it. He howls wildly and neighbors clear across the canyon can hear. And so can the lady who lives next door, although so far she hasn't complained. When we can't stand it any longer we groan out of bed and go down there and give him a lecture and a couple of smacks. He apologizes the moment he sees one of us, but he gets the smacks just the same, and that quiets him for a while . . . I think his mistress ought to be the one that gets out of bed and disciplines Freckles. After all, he loves HER and will continue to love her.

But it's different with me. I'm just the man of the house that comes home at night and rubs his ears. I don't feed him, I don't take care of him. If I do the smacking he may never get to love me—and suppose he is out in the street some day and an automobile comes along and I call him and he refuses to come and the automobile hits him. We'll grieve as all dog-lovers grieve when an animal is injured and we'll wonder if it might have been different if I hadn't smacked him when he was a young fellow.

May that never happen! I know too much about that kind of grief and I hope Freckles lives to be an old, old dog in our house. He's already one of the family.

New Year's Prayer

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Lord, lead me in the kindly ways
This coming year, I pray,
Let me be guided by my heart
And go from day to day

Inspiring those whose feet go down
Into the dismal dark
To lift their eyes to high bright hills
From troubles, bleak and stark.

Let me not follow reason where
It is too cold a creed,
But let men's helplessness appeal
To me, their utter need.

Let me stretch out a hand to help
A beggar asking alms,
Nor stop to question if my gifts
Fall in the worthiest palms.

For who am I that I should sit
In judgment? Let me go
Henceforth the kindly ways, nor seek
The whys of life to know.

'SATISFACTORY YEAR,' INDUSTRY, BUSINESS SAY

can only hope that there will be an improvement in general business soon enough to enable us return to a more desirable production basis."

J. M. Hill, president of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company: "With the sharp decline in general industrial activity in the closing months of 1937, operations in the steel industry dropped from a rate of 80 per cent in September to approximately 20 per cent at the present time.

"While we do not look for a quick upturn approaching normal operations, we do feel that as consumers' inventories are liquidated an improved demand for our product will prevail.

"Recently we have seen evidence indicating that steel stocks in the hands of a number of fabricators have reached the point where replacements must be made, even to support their present reduced operations."

G. W. Stephens, president and general manager of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company: "We are approaching the new year with confidence and are looking forward to a substantial volume of business during 1938.

"We expect activities to be rather slack the first quarter of the year, but after that we look for quite a gain in sales. Passenger car and truck registrations today stand at record levels, and for this reason we believe there will be at least as many tires sold for replacement in 1938 as during the past year."

Carl Oberlin, president and treasurer of the Martin Steel Products company: "Any attempt to forecast the course of business in our field over the next 12 months can, at best, be little more than a guess. Our sales depends on the condition of the farmer and his outlook for the future. True, the farmer generally is better off than a year ago and were it not for the fact that he is fearful of the future, we would expect a substantial increase in sales over 1937. Based on conditions as they are rather than on what we would like them to be, we expect our 1938 sales to approximate the volume of the past year.

"For the next few months we may expect things to be a little slow, but as business men find ways to cut costs so as to permit lower prices, business will improve.

Paul R. Tappan, president and treasurer of the Tappan Stove company: "We look for a gradual improvement in business conditions after the first two or three months of 1938. Activities at our plant at present are slow, due partly to the fact that this is the dull season for our products.

Harold G. Balyeat, president of the Balyeat Manufacturing company: "Despite a 25 per cent decline in the last quarter of 1937, our total business volume for the year set a new record for the company which is in its 40th year. Our December volume this year was equal to that for the same month in 1936.

"We can't see any prospect, however, of an increase for at least two months. By March or April the anticipated seasonal gain should be noticeable."

R. A. Shelton, vice president of the Art Rattan Works, Inc.: "Although industry as a whole will not enter 1938 with the confidence and enthusiasm shown at the beginning of 1937, we confidently look forward to one of our biggest years during the coming 12 months. Since becoming one of Mansfield's diversified industries, our confidence in the community has been more than justified, and we sincerely believe that as a point of distribution for our product and as a sound and intelligent labor market, Mansfield has proved to us her ability to reach her goal of 50,000 population by 1940."

J. Kinkel of the North American Knitting company: "Operations for the first nine months of 1937 were maintained at about 100 per cent of capacity. There has been a noticeable drop, however, during the last few months. In our opinion, the outlook for the first part of 1938 will be about as the period just ended. After that a steady improvement should be noted."

William C. Mead: district manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas company: "We have every reason to believe that the year 1938 will be a very good one for our company, possibly better than the past year. Optimism was shown by all district managers of the firm at a recent meeting in Columbus."

Charles H. Keating, president of Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company: "Although there appears to be a great deal of uncertainty regarding business prospects for 1938, we are not unduly arlamed because we faced this same uncertainty at the beginning of 1937, and in all probability this will be true of each and every new year.

"Our company during 1938 will show an increase in volume of business written and in surplus as the result of its activities in 1937."

See End of Slump.

Heads of national industrial concerns generally predicted an end to the present slump before the second quarter of 1938 is well under way. A number of them, however, based their optimism on the hope that legislative action to lift the fear from industry will be enacted.

The Associated Press quoted Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the U. S. Steel corporation, as declaring that "It is difficult for most of us to believe that the recession is more than temporary. The government was never intended to take the individual's place in the field of progressive effort or planning. To shift our burdens to its shoulders, as many would do, would mean the end of individual freedom. Neither should government interfere, deter or discourage us in our efforts to conquer the ills from which we suffer."

There was optimism in the statement of Francis A. Countway, president of the Lever Brothers company, soap manufacturers. He said: 'The bottom of the present recession will probably be scraped during the first quarter of 1938. A slow, unspectacular improvement should begin during the second quarter. In the second half of the year, it seems reasonable to hope that general business may show real improvement."

Hope filled the prediction of Philip E. Bliss, president of the Warner and Swasey company, Cleveland tool makers. "The whole country is ripe to go forward," he said. "It may be difficult for business to get going again, but there is nothing basically wrong, nothing which cannot be corrected."

George M. Verity, chairman of the American Rolling Mill company at Middletown, predicted that "under any reasonable certainty as to the existence of sound and favorable conditions for all honest and legitimate enterprises, the business of the nation can and will go forward with great optimism and energy.

"We have had change and attempted reform faster than we could assimilate them. Due to the uncertainties of the situation, business must now await announcement from the legislative and administrative branches of our national government as to their policies affecting our economic activities.

Crestline Rail Engineers Plan For Retirement

CRESTLINE — Two Pennsylvania railroad yard engineers have made application for retirement effective the first of the year.

Philip Strauch, who has 38 years in the service of the company began his railroad career as a fireman on the Eastern Division on August 22, 1899, and with his promotion to engineman on October 20, 1902, he was transferred to the local yards and has worked there continuously with the exception of some work between Crestline and Mansfield.

Edward F. McCurdy, who is at present off duty because of an injury to his right hand, has been with the Pennsylvania Railway company for 47 years. He started work as a fireman on the Eastern Division in 1891 and was promoted to engineer in December, 1899. For a while he left the road work because of ill health, but worked for four years in the company's oil house here and the two succeeding years he was a switch tender. Since that time he has been a yard engineer.

BUCYRUS SEATS NEW OFFICIALS

Dustman First Republican to Take Mayor's Chair In 16-Year Period.

BUCYRUS—For the first time in 16 years, Bucyrus will again come under Republican leadership when George T. Dustman officially becomes mayor of Bucyrus at midnight tonight. Along with the mayor will come an almost entirely changed administrative setup.

The new mayor will take the oath of office Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with C. V. Vollrath, county Republican chairman, administering.

Tuesday, at the first meeting of the city council, will see the new official family installed, all but one of whom are new at their posts. Three Republicans and five Democrats comprise the council body.

The new year will also find changes in city administrative departments. Arthur L. Stuckert will assume the post of safety director and C. I. McNeal, service director, through appointments made by the new mayor. Ross B. Black has also been named to the post of waterworks superintendent. Clerks in the water and garbage departments, John Turner and Clem Elberson, will also take over their desks.

New councilmen who will take over their posts Tuesday night include J. W. Loomis, president of council; Larry Schwein and Chester Sharrock, councilmen-at-large; Harry Cole, first ward; W. E. Durr, second ward; L. B. Thompson, third ward, and Luther T. Kinnett, fourth ward. Walter J Michael, councilman-at-large, remains in office from the outgoing administration.

FUNERAL SET

GALION—A number of Galion relatives will attend funeral services at Delaware, Monday morning, for William E. Haas, postmaster at Delaware. He was a nephew of the late John Hass of Galion, and among his surviving cousins in Galion are: William Bleily, Mrs. Albert. Flannery, J. B. McManes, Miss Grace Haas, Joseph and Walter Haas, Mrs. John White, L. J. Sachs and Mary Sachs, and several members of the Frank families in Galion.

SUBS FOR ILL PASTOR

CAPITAL UNIVERSITY ALUMNI GROUP MEETS AT CRESTLINE

CRESTLINE — The annual Crawford county Capital university alumni banquet was held in Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church Tuesday evening with 40 in attendance.

"The Place of Capital Graduates in the World," was the subject of an address given by George J. Rilling, superintendent of schools of Anna, O.

Miss Barbara Ryan of Bucyrus, president of the Crawford county alumni association, acted as toastmistress and read greetings from President Otto Mees of Capital university and E. W. Kastner, publicity manager.

Miss Maxine James and C. L. Kantzer, both of Bucyrus, sang solos on the evening's program accompanied by Miss Ruth Ryan, also of Bucyrus.

Rev. Philip Auer of Galion was elected to succeed Miss Ryan as president of the association.

Dinner was served by ladies of the church at 7 o'clock and dinner music was furnished by the Sunday school orchestra.

Rev. Chas. H. Lange, pastor of the church and also an alumni of Capital, gave brief remarks.

Wearing Clothing To Please Man, Final Fashion Advice

(AP Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK—The most important thing in fashion is dressing to please your man.

He cares about what you wear and can be more irritated than you think by the wrong color or hat. Pleasing him should mean more to you than a listing in "the ten best dressed."

Consult his taste and cater to it. He may know more than you about: (1) how a certain color looks on you, (2) the way a dress and hat look in the back, (3) the effect of both on your while silhouette.

To give you first hand facts on what men like in women's clothes, I canvassed both bachelors and married men in one of America's largest organizations. This is what I learned:

Black's a Favorite.

"Crazy hats" they abhor. The ultra-eccentric headgear some women are wearing this year has set them all muttering.

Most of them like black — if you don't resemble "a walking hearse," and if you lighten it now and then with a jeweled accent or a glowing touch of color. White and blue are their other two favorite hues.

They detest masses of costume jewelry — especially if it clanks. One clip or necklace is enough.

Likes and Dislikes.

They like to have you give the impression that you are soft, warm and nice to touch. Clothes on the fluffy side, however, fail to get their applause.

They hate: Eyebrows plucked to a hairline, false eyelashes, heavy mascara eye make-up, rouge that stands up in two, obvious bright spots, crooked stocking seams, open-heeled sandals that plop up and down, white accessories that are not fresh and women who are continually patting their hair and clothes.

They like: Natural looking makeup, bright lipstick (not too heavy and vivid), shining hair, not stiffly set, open-toed sandals with enough support for the foot, high heels (no spikes), trim belts and veils. Most of them like enameled finger nails, but prefer the soft rose shades to fire engine red.

There is one last thing to consider in dressing to please your man. Don't wear yourself to a thread trying to appear in a new outfit every time you see him. The average male won't know or care whether you wear a new dress or not.

WED ON HOLIDAY

PERRYSVILLE — Word has been received by friends here of the marriage of Miss Lucis Menuez, of Counter, and Arthur Cramer, of Wooster, which took place on Christmas day in the Lutheran parsonage at Wooster, with Rev. Paul S. Kelly officiating

Following the wedding ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cramer, in Wooster, for about fifteen guests.

THEATER

No annual reward exists for animal actors, but Humphrey Bogart plans belated recognition. He's appealing to screen fans to pick the best animal actor of the year and, when the choice is known, he'll present a bronze statuette to the winner. . . . The Clark Gable fan club of Winnipeg sent the star a crate of home-made sweets, one Christmas gift from each of the 1,000 members. . . . Marlene Dietrich and Douglas Fairbanks, jr., are constant companions since her return from Europe. . . .

"She Married an Artist."

The romantic comedy, "She Married An Artist," with John Boles and Luli Deste, Viennese actress, making her American debut, in the leading roles, opens at the Ohio theater on the New Year eve show at 11:30 tonight. The picture will be added to the current attraction, "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry." The story deals with the adventures of a famous French designer, who on a visit to America marries a popular artist. The balance of the film revolves around the efforts of the wife to tame her Broadway husband. Others in the cast are Frances Drake, Alexander D'Arcy and Helen Westley. The Ben Bernie-Walter Winchell production, "Love and Hisses," will open as a regular Saturday mid-night show at 11:30. The picture depicts the battle of wits between the band leader and columnist over the discovery of a new singing star. Simone Simon, Bert Lahr and Joan Davis also are in the cast.

'Manhattan Merry Go-Round.'

"Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," featuring a cast including Phil Regan, Leo Carrillo, Ann Dvorak, Tamara Geva, James Gleason, Ted Lewis and his orchestra, Cab Calloway and his Cotton club band, and Gene Autry, will afford a part of the entertainment on the screen at the Madison theater's New Year eve show beginning at 12 o'clock tonight. In the film Carrillo is cast as a gangster who forecloses the mortgage on a phonograph record company. The real actions begins when his henchmen sent to strong-arm talent, bring in jugglers, magicians and trained dogs. The film will be added to "Angel," with Marlene Dietrich, Herbert Marshall and Melvyn Douglas, for the midnight program. A Western drama, "The Badman of Brimstone," starring Wallace Berry, opens as the Sunday feature. The picture, which was filmed in the Bryce National park, will have Virginia Bruce, Joseph Calleia, Lewis Stone and Guy Kibbee in the supporting roles.

"Danger Patrol."

The lives of the men who make and transport the world's most treacherous explosives, nitro-glycerine, form the background of "Danger Patrol," opening at the Majestic theater today Harry Carey, Sally Eilers and Joan Beal head the cast. Carey plays the role of an old-timer who teaches Beal the trade and complications arise when the latter falls in love with Carey's daughter. The second feature is "Born to the West," the screen adaptation of Zane Grey's western. John Wayne, Marsha Hunt and John Mack Brown have the leading roles. The two shows will be presented at a special late performance New Year eve at 11 p. m. Eddie Cantor in "Strike Me Pink," and "Love On Toast," with Franklin Panghorn, will make up the twin bill for Sunday.

Bulldog Drummond Back.

John Barrymore and John Howard are cast in the top roles of "Bulldog Drummond Comes Back," opening at the Ritz theater today. The plot is built about the kidnaping of Drummond's fiancee by a girl who is out to revenge herself for Drummond's previous strategy in bringing her husband to the gallows. Gene Autry and Polly Rowles in the western film, "Springtime in the Rockies," completes the double feature attraction through Saturday. "Underworld," featuring an all-colored cast including the Pope sisters, the famous Kit Kat club orchestra and the Six Sizzlers, will be shown as a special New Year eve picture starting at 11:30 tonight. The film also will be presented at 11:30 Saturday night. Jack Benny in "Artists and Models," will open at the theater Sunday.

Today's Recipes.

PLUM PUDDING — One-half pound beef suet, one cup sugar, two tablespoons molasses, one cup raisins, one cup currants, one-half pound mixed candied peel, one cup milk, one teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and allspice, a little nutmeg, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, flour to make a stiff batter. Mix well together and boil in floured pudding bag for three hours, or steam for the same length of time. This recipe will serve six, and may be elaborated by the addition of other fruits such as dates, figs, cherries, pineapple, etc., and nuts.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"OH! MR. VERITZEN!" I fairly cooed over the telephone. "I am so glad to hear from you. We were so afraid that you would be ill from the effects of that accident. But we didn't dare telephone for fear you would be sleeping and they would disturb you."

Beside me, eagerly listening, I was conscious of Mother Graham's grimly saturnine face, with a mocking smile just touching the corners of her lips. I remembered her words of a moment before, "Pity he didn't break a leg when that airplane came down."

"Your solicitude is very gratifying," he said, and I knew that even his vanity was not preventing him from realizing something of the true state of my feelings toward him. "I am feeling no ill effects at all. Have Noel and Mary returned yet?"

"Not yet," I said stoutly.

"And you have had no word from them?"

"Nothing."

Not Very Convincing.

"Aren't you worried? Isn't that unlike them?" His voice expressed strong disbelief in my statement.

"I might be, ordinarily," I said, "but they knew that the car could not possibly be repaired before tonight.

"You expect them back tonight, I believe," he said after a pause.

"Oh yes, about nine o'clock. The garage has promised the car by then."

"Nine o'clock!" he echoed. "Are there no mechanics down there?"

Wants Noel to Start.

"It is the summer season, you know," I said placatingly. "Every garage is rushed with work."

"How much sleep has Noel had?"

"I don't know," I said. He wasn't here last night, but these are gorgeous moonlight nights. I imagine they are not wasting any too much time in slumber."

"I should like to have him start back tonight," he said, "but, of course, I do not wish him to risk falling asleep at the wheel, as he will be traveling alone."

"Why not leave it this way?" I said. "As soon as they return, I will find out how much sleep he has had. Then, if I think he's all right, I will have him start at once and telephone you that he is on the way. Otherwise I would rather not give him your message because I know that when he hears of your accident he will wish to start at once, no matter how tired he is."

Plans to Phone Again.

"That seems a good scheme," he said reluctantly. "But on one thing I must insist. He must not know of my accident. I do not wish him to know that I chartered a plane to come after him."

"I will remember," I said, seeing one thing very clearly, that I must drill avoidance of that topic into Noel and Mary.

"And I wish to talk to him before he starts back," he said. "I will telephone again at half after nine. Will you please arrange to answer the telephone? When I ask you, 'Is Noel fit to start?' will you answer, 'yes' or 'no.' Then he will suspect nothing, and I will know what to say."

"I will do that," I returned, resolving that my answer would be an emphatic "no."

As I hung up my own receiver Mother Graham clutched my arm.

"What did he say?" she asked avidly.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 1.

THIS SHOULD be a lively and exciting day in both business and personal relations, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. Important change, removal or travel are probable, with much progress and prosperity in store.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year of opportunity for enhancing their prestige and popularity, increasing their fortunes and gaining high objectives in employment, big business as well as in social, romantic and domestic or community importance. It is a time for pushing to the highest of goals, with every forecast of progress and prosperity. A happy new year is assured.

A child born on this day may have more than the proverbial "gold spoon in its mouth." It should have talent, power, efficiency, ambition, with an affectionate, compassionate and friendly nature.

For Sunday, Jan. 2.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a particularly fortunate one for all social, charitable, ecclesiastical and intellectual affairs, with spiritual and cultural aspirations paramount. There will be gifts and good news, merriment and many youthful activities, heightening happiness and community well being.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a generally progressive and prosperous year, with advancement through ambitious and intellectual plans, supported by important persons in mergers, political or diplomatic circles or secret bodies.

A child born on this day may be versatile, capable and brilliant, but subtle. It will be amiable, affectionate and well liked, reaching high honors by its individuality as well as personal popularity.

For Monday, Jan. 3.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of surprising developments anud opportunities for attaining conspicuous place either in the public eye or in some position of trust and authority. It has the support of elders, superiors and those in high places and may involve radical change or travel. Propitious, exciting, adventurous and felicitous conditions prevail in business and in the private life

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of excellent promise for advancement, power, accomplishment and promotion, with a position of renown and high adventure imminent It may involve radical change and be in the public service.

A child born on this day may be energetic, adventurous, ambitious and bold enough to reach for very high places and attain them through its versatility, executive ability and personal popularity and power.

If talcum powder is rubbed into washable kid and chamois gloves after they have been washed and dried they will have a soft finish.

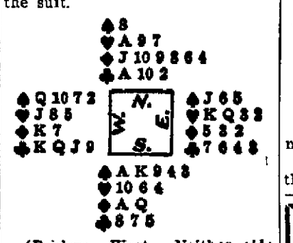
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

FORGET EXTRA TRICKS

IT PAYS TO forego a finesse which may produce an extra trick if it entails the risk of beating your contract. If the loss of that finesse would mean that the opponents then have an opportunity to make a lead which will knock out a crucial entry from the dummy before its suit is set up, that may kill the entire remainders of the suit.



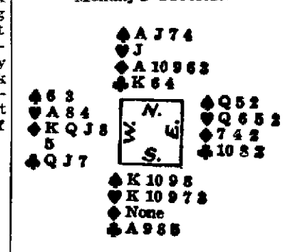
(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

After a pass by West, North started the bidding with 1-Diamond, South called 1-Spade, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps.

West started the defense with the club K and continued with the Q. Declarer won the second round and tried the diamond finesse, which lost to West's K. After cashing his two remaining clubs, West switched to a heart As the diamond suit was now blocked, declarer's contract was hopeless.

A very different situation would have existed had the declarer won the second club and refused the chance for a diamond finesse. The danger of the heart A being knocked out was of paramount importance to the success of the declarer's contract, so he should have cashed the diamond A and then led the Q, with the hope that the K would be forced to win It would not have mattered then if the switch was made to hearts, as the diamonds were then cleared and nine tricks could have been cashed before the opponents again gained control.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

BRIDES OF NEW YEAR HONORED AT PARTIES

Mrs. Reese Concludes Pre-Nuptial Affairs for Miss Frances Thull—Mrs. Pittenger Entertains for Miss Boyd.

TWO young women of Mansfield who will become brides on the first two days of the new year were feted last night at showers given in their honor. Miss Frances Thull, who will become the bride of Edward B. Eagan tomorrow at 8 p. m., was the guest of honor at a shower given by Mrs. Louise Reese at the Susie Janis home last night. Miss Betty Boyd, who will be married to Jack Anthony Sunday was entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles J. Pittenger, 145 Poplar street, yesterday.

Bridge was played with prizes going to Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer, Mrs. Paul Cairns, Miss Marie Thull, and Mrs. Dwight McCullough. This, the final shower for Miss Thull preceding her wedding, was a bathroom shower. Mrs. Reese presented Miss Thull with an electrical gift.

* * *

Mrs. Pittenger entertained four tables of bridge for Miss Boyd last night. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jack McKnight and Mrs. Harry Packham. Mrs. Lamb, of Cleveland, was an out-of-town guest.

Christmas decorations were used throughout the house and at the refreshment table. The guests and hostess all presented the bride-to-be with linen gifts.

* * *

HONOR MRS. PITTMAN.

Members of the Octo club entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. David A. Bricker, 58 Sturges avenue, in honor of Mrs. Claude Pittman and her infant daughter, Peggy Ann. Bridge was played with prizes going to Mrs. Richard C. Burgett and Mrs. Anthony Majoy. Mrs. Ernest Majoy, 194½ West Fourth street, will entertain the group Jan. 13.

Women of Moose Arrange Benefit

The regular lodge meeting and the meeting of the officers and committees of Women of the Moose was held recently at the Moose hall. Discussions of the past year's work were held, and reports of relief work done were given.

Plans were made for a benefit bingo party to be given Jan. 19, proceeds from which will be used for welfare work. Committee members in charge are Mrs. Joseph Gresser, Miss Opal Lebo, Miss Helen Sheets, Mrs. Mae Miller, Mrs. Bertha Coleman, and Mrs. Elmira Caugherty.

The next regular lodge meeting will be held Jan. 12 at the lodge hall.

Former Mansfielder Marries On Christmas

A former Mansfield man, Earl N. Bushnell, took as his bride Mrs. Wanda L. Blaser, Cuyahoga Falls, it was announced this morning. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock Christmas morning at the home of Rev. W. L. Neuman, Cuyahoga Falls.

Mrs. Bushnell is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Alspach, Upper Sandusky, and Mr. Bushnell is the son of C. W. Bushnell. Mr. Bushnell is a graduate of Mansfield High school and attended Ohio State university. The couple is at home at 2047 Eighth street, Cuyahoga Falls.

Breakfast-Dance Scheduled For Our Club Tonight

With scores of social events for this evening and tomorrow already announced it looks as if everyone in Mansfield will have some place to go and something to do. Among the important events scheduled for tonight is the Our club dance. This affair will be the second last dance of the 1937-38 social season.

The dance will be a breakfast affair at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, starting at 11 p. m. and lasting until 3 a. m. Those on the committee making arrangements are Mr. and Mrs. Joy A. Herbert, chairmen; John F. Bissman, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley G. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. J. Reynolds Hodgson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Hout.

* * *

Those on the committee in charge of arrangements and entertainment are Paul Scatella, Miss Mary Lasusa, Rose Cappadonna, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Mollica, Charles Triscari, Natale Chillemi, Anthony Croce, Miss Josephine Miragliotta, Anthony Cappadonna, Joseph Litezia.

Mary Jane Diemer Honored On Birthday

Mary Jane Diemer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Diemer, 81 West First street, was hostess to a group of schoolmates yesterday afternoon at a party in honor of her eighth birthday. Games and contests were the entertainment of the afternoon.

Prizes were won by Doris Alverson, Patty Miller, Peggy Hess, Nina Jean Stash, and Colleen Stewart. Guests in addition to the prize winners were Ann Manner, Betty Lou Reining, Irene Wilhelm, Kathleen Diemer and Junior McCartney, Galion.

* * *

ENTERTAINS AT LUNCH.

Members of the Acorn club were entertained yesterday by Mrs. T. F. Powley at a 1 o'clock luncheon. The afternoon was spent in sewing. The next meeting will be a pot-luck luncheon Jan. 13 at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Stelzer, 33 Buckingham avenue.

BOOK MEETING

LUCAS—Members of the St. Paul's Eutheran church here will hold their annual business meeting Saturday evening, according to Rev. Carl Driscoll, pastor. Preceeding the session there will be a picnic supper for members and friends of the church.

The Pleasant Valley church, south of Lucas, will hold its annual meeting Sunday morning after the church service.

Mansfield Girls Wed Christmas Week-End

At the right is the former Miss Jewel Louise Gannaway, who became the bride of Robert R. Ford in a double ring candlelight ceremony Dec. 24 at the Park Avenue Baptist church. In an early Christmas morning ceremony performed at St. Luke's Lutheran church, the former Miss Genevieve Cairns, below, and Charles E. Bahl were united in marriage. Mrs. Ford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Gannaway, 254 Marion avenue, and Mrs. Bahl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Cairns, 39 Penn avenue. Mrs. Ford is shown in her wedding gown while Mrs. Bahl is pictured in an informal pose. Mr. and Mrs. Bahl are returning tomorrow from a week's wedding trip. They will be at home in Glen Bec Lane, Ausdale. Mr. and Mrs. Ford took a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. The couple may make their home in Columbus for a while following their return from the east.

Wearing Clothing To Please Man, Final Fashion Advice

(AP Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK—The most important thing in fashion is dressing to please your man.

He cares about what you wear and can be more irritated than you think by the wrong color or hat. Pleasing him should mean more to you than a listing in "the ten best dressed."

Consult his taste and cater to it. He may know more than you about: (1) how a certain color looks on you, (2) the way a dress and hat look in the back, (3) the effect of both on your while silhouette.

To give you first hand facts on what men like in women's clothes, I canvassed both bachelors and married men in one of America's largest organizations. This is what I learned:

Black's a Favorite.

"Crazy hats" they abhor. The ultra-eccentric headgear some women are wearing this year has set them all muttering.

Most of them like black — if you don't resemble "a walking bearskin," and if you lighten it now and then with a jeweled accent or a glowing touch of color. White and blue are their other two favorite hues.

They detest masses of costume jewelry — especially if it clanks. One clip or necklace is enough.

Likes and Dislikes.

They like to have you give the impression that you are soft, warm and nice to touch. Clothes on the fluffy side, however, fail to get their applause.

They hate: Eyebrows plucked to a hairline, false eyelashes, heavy mascara eye make-up, rouge that stands up in two, obvious bright spots, crooked stocking seams, open-heeled sandals that plop up and down, white accessories that are not fresh and women who are continually patting their hair and clothes.

They like: Natural looking makeup, bright lipstick (not too heavy and vivid), shining hair, not stiffly set, open-toed sandals with enough support for the foot, high heels (no spikes), trim belts and veils. Most of them like enameled finger nails, but prefer the soft rose shades to fire engine red.

There is one last thing to consider in dressing to please your man. Don't wear yourself to a thread trying to appear in a new outfit every time you see him. The average male won't know or care whether you wear a new dress or not.

WED ON HOLIDAY

PERRYSVILLE — Word has been received by friends here of the marriage of Miss Lucis Menuez, of Counter, and Arthur Cramer, of Wooster, which took place on Christmas day in the Lutheran parsonage at Wooster, with Rev. Paul S. Kelly officiating.

Following the wedding ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cramer, in Wooster, for about fifteen guests.

Loudonville

WED ON CHRISTMAS

Christmas morning in the Zion Lutheran church, Walter Stitzline and Miss Rachel Menchoffer were united in marriage by Rev. J. H. Kuhlman, who performed the Lutheran single ring ceremony. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed L. Stitzline and the bride is the daughter of George Menchoffer. The attendants were Paul Menchoffer, brother of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Stitzline, sister of the groom. The couple will reside on the Ed L. Stitzline farm, four miles northeast of Loudonville on the Pleasant Valley road.

CLUB HOLDS PARTY

The Junior Music club held their annual Christmas party Monday at the home of Counselor Mrs. R. H. Priest. Games and contests were enjoyed. Christmas carols were sung by the group. Eddie Crow of Lakewood and Mrs. Anna Mae Pyors of Mansfield were guests. A buffet lunch was served from the dining room table, which was centered with tall red tapers and red Poinsettias. The next meeting will be held Jan. 10, at the home of Randolph Andress on North Water street.

ENTERTAIN AT CARDS

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Balliett entertained with three tables of "500" Monday evening at their home. Prizes were awarded to Miss Grace Ryland and Mrs. J. F. McClure. Earl Lutz and Ray H. Priest. John Foss of Washington, D. C., was a guest. At the close of the games refreshments were served.

BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Mapes and family of Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mapes and family of Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Doup and daughter of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parrott and family Mr. and Mrs. C. Messner and family, Orris Sellers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doup of Jelloway, returned after a visit with Mrs. Ida Mapes, south of town.

* * *

Miss Corinne Loury of East Chicago is spending a week in the F. A. Esely home. A week-end guest in the same home was Albert Esely of Mansfield.

"She Married an Artist."

The romantic comedy, "She Married An Artist," with John Boles and Luli Deste, Viennese actress, making her American debut, in the leading roles, opens at the Ohio theater on the New Year eve show at 11:30 tonight. The picture will be added to the current attraction, "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry." The story deals with the adventures of a famous French designer, who on a visit to America marries a populaf artist. The balance of the film revolves around the efforts of the wife to tame her Broadway husband. Others in the cast are Frances Drake, Alexander D'Arcy and Helen Westley. The Ben Bernie-Walter Winchell production, "Love and Hisses," will open as a regular Saturday mid-night show at 11:30. The picture depicts the battle of wits between the band leader and columnist over the discovery of a new singing star. Simone Simon, Bert Lahr and Joan Davis also are in the cast.

• • •

"Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," featuring a cast including Phil Regan, Leo Carrillo, Ann Dvorak, Tamara Geva, James Gleason, Ted Lewis and his orchestra, Cab Calloway and his Cotton club band, and Gene Autry, will afford a part of the entertainment on the screen at the Madison theater's New Year eve show beginning at 12 o'clock tonight. In the film Carrillo is cast as a gangster who forecloses the mortgage on a phonograph record company. The real actions begins when his henchmen sent to strong-arm talent, bring in jugglers, magicians and trained dogs. The film will be added to "Angel," with Marlene Dietrich, Herbert Marshall and Melvyn Douglas, for the midnight program. A Western drama, "The Badman of Brimstone," starring Wallace Berry, opens as the Sunday feature. The picture, which was filmed in the Bryce National park, will have Virginia Bruce, Joseph Calleia, Lewis Stone and Guy Kibbee in the supporting roles.

"Danger Patrol."

The lives of the men who make and transport the world's most treacherous explosives, nitro-glycerine, form the background of "Danger Patrol," opening at the Majestic theater today. Harry Carey, Sally Eilers and Joan Beal head the cast. Carey plays the role of an old-timer who teaches Beal the trade and complications arise when the latter falls in love with Carey's daughter. The second feature is "Born to the West," the screen adaptation of Zane Grey's western. John Wayne, Marsha Hunt and John Mack Brown have the leading roles. The two shows will be presented at a special late performance New Year eve at 11 p. m. Eddie Cantor in "Strike Me Pink," and "Love On Toast," with Franklin Pangborn, will make up the twin bill for Sunday.

Bulldog Drummond Back.

John Barrymore and John Howard are cast in the top roles of "Bulldog Drummond Comes Back," opening at the Ritz theater today. The plot is built about the kidnaping of Drummond's fiancee by a girl who is out to revenge herself for Drummond's previous strategy in bringing her husband to the gallows. Gene Autry and Polly Rowles in the western film, "Springtime in the Rockies," completes the double feature attraction through Saturday. "Underworld," featuring an all-colored cast including the Pope sisters, the famous Kit Kat club orchestra and the Six Sizzlers, will be shown as a special New Year eve picture starting at 11:30 tonight. The film also will be presented at 11:30 Saturday night. Jack Benny in "Artists and Models," will open at the theater Sunday.

Today's Recipes.

PLUM PUDDING — One-half pound beef suet, one cup sugar, two tablespoons molasses, one cup raisins, one cup currants, one-half pound mixed candied peel, one cup milk, one teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and allspice, a little nutmeg, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, flour to make a stiff batter. Mix well together and boil in floured pudding bag for three hours, or steam for the same length of time. This recipe will serve six, and may be elaborated by the addition of other fruits such as dates, figs, cherries, pineapple, etc., and nuts.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"OH! MR. VERITZEN!" I fairly cooed over the telephone. "I am so glad to hear from you. We were so afraid that you would be ill from the effects of that accident. But we didn't dare telephone for fear you would be sleeping and they would disturb you."

Beside me, eagerly listening, I was conscious of Mother Graham's grimly saturnine face, with a mocking smile just touching the corners of her lips. I remembered her words of a moment before, "Pity he didn't break a leg when that airplane came down."

"Your solicitude is very gratifying," he said, and I knew that even his vanity was not preventing him from realizing something of the true state of my feelings toward him "I am feeling no ill effects at all. Have Noel and Mary returned yet?"

"Not yet," I said stoutly.

"Nothing."

Not Very Convincing.

"Aren't you worried? Isn't that unlike them?" His voice expressed strong disbelief in my statement.

"I might be, ordinarily," I said, "but they knew that the car could not possibly be repaired before tonight.

"You expect them back tonight, I believe," he said after a pause. "Oh yes, about nine o'clock. The garage has promised the car by then."

"Nine o'clock!" he echoed. "Are there no mechanics down there?"

Wants Noel to Start.

"It is the summer season, you know," I said placatingly. "Every garage is rushed with work."

"How much sleep has Noel had?"

"I don't know," I said. He wasn't here last night, but these are gorgeous moonlight nights. I imagine they are not wasting any too much time in slumber."

"I should like to have him start back tonight," he said, "but, of course, I do not wish him to risk falling asleep at the wheel, as he will be traveling alone."

"Why not leave it this way?" I said. "As soon as they return, I will find out how much sleep he has had. Then, if I think he's all right, I will have him start at once and telephone you that he is on the way. Otherwise I would rather not give him your message because I know that when he hears of your accident he will wish to start at once, no matter how tired he is."

Plans to Phone Again.

"That seems a good scheme," he said reluctantly. "But on one thing I must insist. He must not know of my accident. I do not wish him to know that I chartered a plane to come after him."

"I will remember," I said, seeing one thing very clearly, that I must drill avoidance of that topic into Noel and Mary.

"And I wish to talk to him before he starts back," he said. "I will telephone again at half after nine. Will you please arrange to answer the telephone? When I ask you, 'Is Noel fit to start?' will you answer, 'yes' or 'no.' Then he will suspect nothing, and I will know what to say."

"I will do that," I returned, resolving that my answer would be an emphatic "no."

As I hung up my own receiver Mother Graham clutched my arm. "What did he say?" she asked avidly.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

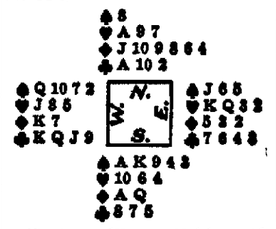
FORGET EXTRA TRICKS

IT PAYS TO forego a finesse which may produce an extra trick if it entails the risk of beating your contract. If the loss of that finesse would mean that the opponents then have an opportunity to make a lead which will knock out a crucial entry from the dummy before its suit is set up, that may kill the entire remainders of the suit.



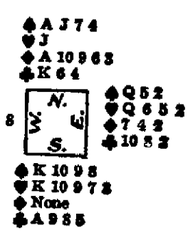
(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

After a pass by West, North started the bidding with 1-Diamond, South called 1-Spade, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps.

West started the defense with the club K and continued with the Q Declarer won the second round and tried the diamond finesse, which lost to West's K. After cashing his two remaining clubs, West switched to a heart. As the diamond suit was now blocked, declarer's contract was hopeless.

A very different situation would have existed had the declarer won the second club and refused the chance for a diamond finesse. The danger of the heart A being knocked out was of paramount importance to the success of the declarer's contract, so he should have cashed the diamond A and then led the Q, with the hope that the K would be forced to win. It would not have mattered then if the switch was made to hearts, as the diamonds were then cleared and nine tricks could have been cashed before the opponents again gained control.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 1.

THIS SHOULD be a lively and exciting day in both business and personal relations, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. Important change, removal or travel are probable, with much progress and prosperity in store.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year of opportunity for enhancing their prestige and popularity, increasing their fortunes and gaining high objectives in employment, big business as well as in social, romantic and domestic or community importance. It is a time for pushing to the highest of goals, with every forecast of progress and prosperity. A happy new year is assured.

A child born on this day may have more than the proverbial "gold spoon in its mouth." It should have talent, power, efficiency, ambition, with an affectionate, compassionate and friendly nature.

For Sunday, Jan. 2.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a particularly fortunate one for all social, charitable, ecclesiastical and intellectual affairs, with spiritual and cultural aspirations paramount. There will be gifts and good news, merriment and many youthful activities, heightening happiness and community well being.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a generally progressive and prosperous year, with advancement through ambitious and intellectual plans, supported by important persons in mergers, political or diplomatic circles or secret bodies.

A child born on this day may be versatile, capable and brilliant, but subtle. It will be amiable, affectionate and well liked, reaching high honors by its individuality as well as personal popularity.

For Monday, Jan. 3.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of surprising developments anud opportunities for attaining conspicuous place either in the public eye or in some position of trust and authority. It has the support of elders, superiors and those in high places and may involve radical change or travel. Propitious, exciting, adventurous and felicitous conditions prevail in business and in the private life.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of excellent promise for advancement, power, accomplishment and promotion, with a position of renown and high adventure imminent. It may involve radical change and be in the public service.

A child born on this day may be energetic, adventurous, ambitious and bold enough to reach for very high places and attain them through its versatility, executive ability and personal popularity and power.

If talcum powder is rubbed into washable kid and chamois gloves after they have been washed and dried they will have a soft finish.

My Neighbor Says:

For a change, when making your next white cake, add a teaspoon of cinnamon. It gives it a lovely flavor and is quite a change from the regular white cake.

Tack a neat pocket on the back of your ironing board and place a folded pressing cloth in it, then you will never have to hunt for one when pressing heavier garments.

Wants Noel to Start.

"It is the summer season, you know," I said placatingly. "Every garage is rushed with work."

"How much sleep has Noel had?"

"I don't know," I said. He wasn't here last night, but these are gorgeous moonlight nights. I imagine they are not wasting any too much time in slumber."

"I should like to have him start back tonight," he said, "but, of course, I do not wish him to risk falling asleep at the wheel, as he will be traveling alone."

"Why not leave it this way?" I said. "As soon as they return, I will find out how much sleep he has had. Then, if I think he's all right, I will have him start at once and telephone you that he is on the way. Otherwise I would rather not give him your message because I know that when he hears of your accident he will wish to start at once, no matter how tired he is."

Plans to Phone Again.

"That seems a good scheme," he said reluctantly. "But on one thing I must insist. He must not know of my accident. I do not wish him to know that I chartered a plane to come after him."

"I will remember," I said, seeing one thing very clearly, that I must drill avoidance of that topic into Noel and Mary.

"And I wish to talk to him before he starts back," he said. "I will telephone again at half after nine. Will you please arrange to answer the telephone? When I ask you, 'Is Noel fit to start?' will you answer, 'yes' or 'no.' Then he will suspect nothing, and I will know what to say."

"I will do that," I returned, resolving that my answer would be an emphatic "no."

As I hung up my own receiver Mother Graham clutched my arm.

"What did he say?" she asked avidly.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 1.

THIS SHOULD be a lively and exciting day in both business and personal relations, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. Important change, removal or travel are probable, with much progress and prosperity in store.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year of opportunity for enhancing their prestige and popularity, increasing their fortunes and gaining high objectives in employment, big business as well as in social, romantic and domestic or community importance. It is a time for pushing to the highest of goals, with every forecast of progress and prosperity. A happy new year is assured.

A child born on this day may have more than the proverbial "gold spoon in its mouth." It should have talent, power, efficiency, ambition, with an affectionate, compassionate and friendly nature.

For Sunday, Jan. 2.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a particularly fortunate one for all social, charitable, ecclesiastical and intellectual affairs, with spiritual and cultural aspirations paramount. There will be gifts and good news, merriment and many youthful activities, heightening happiness and community well being.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a generally progressive and prosperous year, with advancement through ambitious and intellectual plans, supported by important persons in mergers, political or diplomatic circles or secret bodies.

A child born on this day may be versatile, capable and brilliant, but subtle. It will be amiable, affectionate and well liked, reaching high honors by its individuality as well as personal popularity.

For Monday, Jan. 3.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of surprising developments anud opportunities for attaining conspicuous place either in the public eye or in some position of trust and authority. It has the support of elders, superiors and those in high places and may involve radical change or travel. Propitious, exciting, adventurous and felicitous conditions prevail in business and in the private life.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of excellent promise for advancement, power, accomplishment and promotion, with a position of renown and high adventure imminent. It may involve radical change and be in the public service.

A child born on this day may be energetic, adventurous, ambitious and bold enough to reach for very high places and attain them through its versatility, executive ability and personal popularity and power.

If talcum powder is rubbed into washable kid and chamois gloves after they have been washed and dried they will have a soft finish.

My Neighbor Says:

For a change, when making your next white cake, add a teaspoon of cinnamon. It gives it a lovely flavor and is quite a change from the regular white cake.

Tack a neat pocket on the back of your ironing board and place a folded pressing cloth in it, then you will never have to hunt for one when pressing heavier garments.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

FORGET EXTRA TRICKS

IT PAYS TO forego a finesse which may produce an extra trick if it entails the risk of beating your contract. If the loss of that finesse would mean that the opponents then have an opportunity to make a lead which will knock out a crucial entry from the dummy before its suit is set up, that may kill the entire remainders of the suit.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

After a pass by West, North started the bidding with 1-Diamond, South called 1-Spade, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps.

West started the defense with the club K and continued with the Q. Declarer won the second round and tried the diamond finesse, which lost to West's K. After cashing his two remaining clubs, West switched to a heart. As the diamond suit was now blocked, declarer's contract was hopeless.

A very different situation would have existed had the declarer won the second club and refused the chance for a diamond finesse. The danger of the heart A being knocked out was of paramount importance to the success of the declarer's contract, so he should have cashed the diamond A and then led the Q, with the hope that the K would be forced to win. It would not have mattered then if the switch was made to hearts, as the diamonds were then cleared and nine tricks could have been cashed before the opponents again gained control.

Monday's Problem.

BRIDES OF NEW YEAR HONORED AT PARTIES

Mrs. Reese Concludes Pre-Nuptial Affairs for Miss Frances Thull—Mrs. Pittenger Entertains for Miss Boyd.

TWO young women of Mansfield who will become brides on the first two days of the new year were feted last night at showers given in their honor. Miss Frances Thull, who will become the bride of Edward B. Eagan tomorrow at 3 p. m., was the guest of honor at a shower given by Mrs. Louise Reese at the Susie Janis home last night. Miss Betty Boyd, who will be married to Jack Anthony Sunday was entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles J. Pittenger, 145 Poplar street, yesterday.

Bridge was played with prizes going to Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer, Mrs. Paul Cairns, Miss Marie Thull, and Mrs. Dwight McCullough. This, the final shower for Miss Thull preceding her wedding, was a bathroom shower. Mrs. Reese presented Miss Thull with an electrical gift.

* * *

Mrs. Pittenger entertained four tables of bridge for Miss Boyd last night. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jack McKnight and Mrs. Harry Packham. Mrs. Lamb, of Cleveland, was an out-of-town guest.

Christmas decorations were used throughout the house and at the refreshment table. The guests and hostess all presented the bride-to-be with linen gifts.

* * *

HONOR MRS. PITTMAN.

Members of the Octo club entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. David A. Bricker, 58 Sturges avenue, in honor of Mrs. Claude Pittman and her infant daughter, Peggy Ann. Bridge was played with prizes going to Mrs. Richard C. Burgett and Mrs. Anthony Majoy. Mrs. Ernest Majoy, 194½ West Fourth street, will entertain the group Jan. 13.

Women of Moose Arrange Benefit

The regular lodge meeting and the meeting of the officers and committees of Women of the Moose was held recently at the Moose hall. Discussions of the past year's work were held, and reports of relief work done were given.

Plans were made for a benefit bingo party to be given Jan. 19, proceeds from which will be used for welfare work. Committee members in charge are Mrs. Joseph Gresser, Miss Opal Lebo, Miss Helen Sheets, Mrs. Mae Miller, Mrs. Bertha Coleman, and Mrs. Elmira Caugherty.

The next regular lodge meeting will be held Jan. 12 at the lodge hall.

Former Mansfielder Marries On Christmas

A former Mansfield man, Earl N. Bushnell, took as his bride Mrs. Wanda L. Blaser, Cuyahoga Falls, it was announced this morning. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock Christmas morning at the home of Rev. W. L. Neuman, Cuyahoga Falls.

Mrs. Bushnell is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Alspach, Upper Sandusky, and Mr. Bushnell is the son of C. W. Bushnell. Mr. Bushnell is a graduate of Mansfield High school and attended Ohio State university. The couple is at home at 2047 Eighth street, Cuyahoga Falls.

Breakfast-Dance Scheduled For Our Club Tonight

With scores of social events for this evening and tomorrow already announced it looks as if everyone in Mansfield will have some place to go and something to do. Among the important events scheduled for tonight is the Our club dance. This affair will be the second last dance of the 1937-38 social season.

The dance will be a breakfast affair at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, starting at 11 p. m. and lasting until 3 a. m. Those on the committee making arrangements are Mr. and Mrs. Joy A. Herbert, chairmen; John F. Bissman, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley G. Carr, Mr and Mrs. J. Reynolds Hodgson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Hout.

* * *

Those on the committee in charge of arrangements and entertainment are Paul Scatella, Miss Mary Lasusa, Rose Cappadonna, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Mollica, Charles Triscari, Natale Chillemi, Anthony Croce, Miss Josephine Miragliotta, Anthony Cappadonna, Joseph Litezia.

Mary Jane Diemer Honored On Birthday

Mary Jane Diemer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Diemer, 81 West First street, was hostess to a group of schoolmates yesterday afternoon at a party in honor of her eighth birthday. Games and contests were the entertainment of the afternoon.

Prizes were won by Doris Alverson, Patty Miller, Peggy Hess, Nina Jean Stash, and Colleen Stewart. Guests in addition to the prize winners were Ann Manner, Betty Lou Reining, Irene Wilhelm, Kathleen Diemer and Junior McCartney, Galion.

* * *

ENTERTAINS AT LUNCH.

Members of the Acorn club were entertained yesterday by Mrs. T. F. Powley at a 1 o'clock luncheon. The afternoon was spent in sewing. The next meeting will be a pot-luck luncheon Jan. 13 at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Stelzer, 33 Buckingham avenue.

BOOK MEETING

LUCAS—Members of the St. Paul's Lutheran church here will hold their annual business meeting Saturday evening, according to Rev. Carl Driscoll, pastor. Preceeding the session there will be a picnic supper for members and friends of the church.

The Pleasant Valley church, south of Lucas, will hold its annual meeting Sunday morning after the church service.

Loudonville

WED ON CHRISTMAS

Christmas morning in the Zion Lutheran church, Walter Stitzline and Miss Rachel Menchoffer were united in marriage by Rev J H Kuhlman, who performed the Lutheran single ring ceremony. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed L. Stitzline and the bride is the daughter of George Menchoffer. The attendants were Paul Menchoffer, brother of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Stitzline, sister of the groom. The couple will reside on the Ed L. Stitzline farm, four miles northeast of Loudonville on the Pleasant Valley road.

CLUB HOLDS PARTY

The Junior Music club held their annual Christmas party Monday at the home of Counselor Mrs R. H. Priest. Games and contests were enjoyed. Christmas carols were sung by the group Eddie Crow of Lakewood and Mrs. Anna Mae Pyors of Mansfield were guests. A buffet lunch was served from the dining room table, which was centered with tall red tapers and red Poinsettias. The next meeting will be held Jan. 10, at the home of Randolph Andress on North Water street.

ENTERTAIN AT CARDS

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Balliett entertained with three tables of "500" Monday evening at their home. Prizes were awarded to Miss Grace Ryland and Mrs. J. F. McClure. Earl Lutz and Ray H. Priest. John Foss of Washington, D. C., was a guest. At the close of the games refreshments were served.

BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Mapes and family of Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mapes and family of Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Doup and daughter of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parrott and family Mr. and Mrs. C. Messner and family, Orris Sellers, Mr. and Mrs Thomas Doup of Jelloway, returned after a visit with Mrs. Ida Mapes, south of town.

* * *

Miss Corinne Loury of East Chicago is spending a week in the F. A Esely home. A week-end guest in the same home was Albert Esely of Mansfield.

Mansfield Girls Wed Christmas Week-End

At the right is the former Miss Jewel Louise Gannaway, who became the bride of Robert R. Ford in a double ring candlelight ceremony Dec. 24 at the Park Avenue Baptist church. In an early Christmas morning ceremony performed at St. Luke's Lutheran church, the former Miss Genevieve Cairns, below, and Charles E. Bahl were united in marriage. Mrs. Ford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Gannaway, 254 Marion avenue, and Mrs. Bahl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Cairns, 39 Penn avenue. Mrs. Ford is shown in her wedding gown while Mrs. Bahl is pictured in an informal pose. Mr. and Mrs. Bahl are returning tomorrow from a week's wedding trip. They will be at home in Glen Bec Lane, Ausdale. Mr. and Mrs. Ford took a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. The couple may make their home in Columbus for a while following their return from the east.

Wearing Clothing To Please Man, Final Fashion Advice

(AP Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK—The most important thing in fashion is dressing to please your man.

He cares about what you wear and can be more irritated than you think by the wrong color or hat. Pleasing him should mean more to you than a listing in "the ten best dressed."

Consult his taste and cater to it. He may know more than you about: (1) how a certain color looks on you, (2) the way a dress and hat look in the back, (3) the effect of both on your while silhouette.

To give you first hand facts on what men like in women's clothes, I canvassed both bachelors and married men in one of America's largest organizations. This is what I learned:

They love a trim slender figure. Flatteringly low-cut evening gowns draw no frowns from them, provided the decolletage doesn't reveal collar bones or fat arms

Black's a Favorite.

"Crazy hats" they abhor. The ultra-eccentric headgear some women are wearing this year has set them all muttering.

Most of them like black — if you don't resemble "a walking hearse," and if you lighten it now and then with a jeweled accent or a glowing touch of color. White and blue are their other two favorite hues.

They detest masses of costume jewelry — especially if it clanks. One clip or necklace is enough.

Likes and Dislikes.

They like to have you give the impression that you are soft, warm and nice to touch. Clothes on the fluffy side, however, fail to get their applause.

They hate: Eyebrows plucked to a hairline, false eyelashes, heavy mascara eye make-up, rouge that stands up in two, obvious bright spots, crooked stocking seams, open-heeled sandals that plop up and down, white accessories that are not fresh and women who are continually patting their hair and clothes.

They like: Natural looking makeup, bright lipstick (not too heavy and vivid), shining hair, not stiffly set, open-toed sandals with enough support for the foot, high heels (no spikes), trim belts and veils. Most of them like enameled finger nails, but prefer the soft rose shades to fire engine red.

There is one last thing to consider in dressing to please your man. Don't wear yourself to a thread trying to appear in a new outfit every time you see him. The average male won't know or care whether you wear a new dress or not.

WED ON HOLIDAY

PERRYSVILLE — Word has been received by friends here of the marriage of Miss Lucis Menuez, of Counter, and Arthur Cramer, of Wooster, which took place on Christmas day in the Lutheran parsonage at Wooster, with Rev. Paul S. Kelly officiating.

Following the wedding ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cramer, in Wooster, for about fifteen guests.

YEAR'S EVENTS CLOSE AT SOCIAL SESSIONS

ANY NUMBER of small social clubs met yesterday for their final party of 1937 and to make plans for the first meetings of the coming year. Luncheon meetings were held by the Acorn club and the Thursday Mothers' club, while many other groups spent the afternoon playing cards or other games in a similar social way.

Mrs. John Long, Wayne street, was hostess recently to members of the It-Ul-Do club when they met for cards. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. L. E. Schmid, Mrs. Marvin Grabler and Mrs. Clarence Cook, a guest. The next meeting will be Jan. 12 at Mrs. Grabler's home on Bigelow road.

* * *

MAY-B CLUB MEETS.

Members of the May-B club were entertained yesterday by Mrs. Frances Laughbaum, Canton, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Stanley Balliett, 131 North Bowman street, yesterday. Bunco was played and prizes went to Mrs. Lowell Morgan and Mrs. Hugh Sturgeon. The next meeting will be Jan. 12 with Mrs. Morgan, Bentley avenue, hostess.

* * *

MOTHERS' CLUB MEETS.

The Thursday Mothers' club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. B. B. Keith for a 1 o'clock luncheon with Miss Josephine Keith and Mrs. Robert Keith as guests. Ten members and guests were seated at a long table decorated in red and green. The afternoon was spent socially. Mrs. A. H. Weikert will entertain the club at her home, 91 Poplar street, Feb. 3.

* * *

SUB-DEBS HAVE DISCUSSION.

Miss Frances Hanson, 49 Maple street, was hostess last night to members of the Sub-Deb club. Following a short business meeting there was a discussion of membership qualifications. Miss Willa Hollingshead, 16 Glenwood boulevard, will be hostess Jan. 13. Miss Mary Werner, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Webb Entertains For Piano Students

Those appearing on the program, which honored Mme. Schumann-Heink, were Richard, Danny and Jerry Bishop; Jean and James Curry; Katherine Lannerd; Mary Rhoades: Helen Ann Troll; Vivian Miller; Richard Sparks; and Marion and Donald Given.

THEATER

No annual reward exists for animal actors, but Humphrey Bogart plans belated recognition. He's appealing to screen fans to pick the best animal actor of the year and, when the choice is known, he'll present a bronze statuette to the winner. . . . The Clark Gable fan club of Winnipeg sent the star a crate of home-made sweets, one Christmas gift from each of the 1,000 members. . . . Marlene Dietrich and Douglas Fairbanks, jr., are constant companions since her return from Europe. . . .

"She Married an Artist."

The romantic comedy, "She Married An Artist," with John Boles and Luli Deste, Viennese actress, making her American debut, in the leading roles, opens at the Ohio theater on the New Year eve show at 11:30 tonight. The picture will be added to the current attraction, "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry." The story deals with the adventures of a famous French designer, who on a visit to America marries a popular artist. The balance of the film revolves around the efforts of the wife to tame her Broadway husband. Others in the cast are Frances Drake, Alexander D'Arcy and Helen Westley. The Ben Bernie-Walter Winchell production, "Love and Hisses," will open as a regular Saturday mid-night show at 11:30. The picture depicts the battle of wits between the band leader and columnist over the discovery of a new singing star. Simone Simon, Bert Lahr and Joan Davis also are in the cast.

'Manhattan Merry Go-Round.'

"Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," featuring a cast including Phil Regan, Leo Carrillo, Ann Dvorak, Tamara Geva, James Gleason, Ted Lewis and his orchestra, Cab Calloway and his Cotton club band, and Gene Autry, will afford a part of the entertainment on the screen at the Madison theater's New Year eve show beginning at 12 o'clock tonight. In the film Carrillo is cast as a gangster who forecloses the mortgage on a phonograph record company. The real actions begins when his henchmen sent to strong-arm talent, bring in jugglers, magicians and trained dogs. The film will be added to "Angel," with Marlene Dietrich, Herbert Marshall and Melvyn Douglas, for the midnight program. A Western drama, "The Badman of Brimstone," starring Wallace Berry, opens as the Sunday feature. The picture, which was filmed in the Bryce National park, will have Virginia Bruce, Joseph Calleia, Lewis Stone and Guy Kibbee in the supporting roles.

"Danger Patrol."

The lives of the men who make and transport the world's most treacherous explosives, nitro-glycerine, form the background of "Danger Patrol," opening at the Majestic theater today. Harry Carey, Sally Eilers and Joan Beal head the cast. Carey plays the role of an old-timer who teaches Beal the trade and complications arise when the latter falls in love with Carey's daughter. The second feature is "Born to the West," the screen adaptation of Zane Grey's western. John Wayne, Marsha Hunt and John Mack Brown have the leading roles. The two shows will be presented at a special late performance New Year eve at 11 p. m. Eddie Cantor in "Strike Me Pink," and "Love On Toast," with Franklin Panghorn, will make up the twin bill for Sunday.

Bulldog Drummond Back.

John Barrymore and John Howard are cast in the top roles of "Bulldog Drummond Comes Back," opening at the Ritz theater today. The plot is built about the kidnaping of Drummond's fiancee by a girl who is out to revenge herself for Drummond's previous strategy in bringing her husband to the gallows. Gene Autry and Polly Rowles in the western film, "Springtime in the Rockies," completes the double feature attraction through Saturday. "Underworld," featuring an all-colored cast including the Pope sisters, the famous Kit Kat club orchestra and the Six Sizzlers, will be shown as a special New Year eve picture starting at 11:30 tonight. The film also will be presented at 11:30 Saturday night. Jack Benny in "Artists and Models," will open at the theater Sunday.

Today's Recipes.

PLUM PUDDING — One-half pound beef suet, one cup sugar, two tablespoons molasses, one cup raisins, one cup currants, one-half pound mixed candied peel, one cup milk, one teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and allspice, a little nutmeg, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, flour to make a stiff batter. Mix well together and boil in floured pudding bag for three hours, or steam for the same length of time. This recipe will serve six, and may be elaborated by the addition of other fruits such as dates, figs, cherries, pineapple, etc., and nuts.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"OH! MR. VERITZEN!" I fairly cooed over the telephone. "I am so glad to hear from you. We were so afraid that you would be ill from the effects of that accident. But we didn't dare telephone for fear you would be sleeping and they would disturb you."

Beside me, eagerly listening, I was conscious of Mother Graham's grimly saturnine face, with a mocking smile just touching the corners of her lips. I remembered her words of a moment before, "Pity he didn't break a leg when that airplane came down."

"Your solicitude is very gratifying," he said, and I knew that even his vanity was not preventing him from realizing something of the true state of my feelings toward him. "I am feeling no ill effects at all. Have Noel and Mary returned yet?"

"Not yet," I said stoutly.

"Nothing."

Not Very Convincing.

"Aren't you worried? Isn't that unlike them?" His voice expressed strong disbelief in my statement.

"I might be, ordinarily," I said, "but they knew that the car could not possibly be repaired before tonight.

"You expect them back tonight, I believe," he said after a pause.

"Oh yes, about nine o'clock. The garage has promised the car by then."

"Nine o'clock!" he echoed. "Are there no mechanics down there?"

Wants Noel to Start.

"It is the summer season, you know," I said placatingly. "Every garage is rushed with work."

"How much sleep has Noel had?"

"I don't know," I said. He wasn't here last night, but these are gorgeous moonlight nights. I imagine they are not wasting any too much time in slumber."

"I should like to have him start back tonight," he said, "but, of course, I do not wish him to risk falling asleep at the wheel, as he will be traveling alone."

"Why not leave it this way?" I said. "As soon as they return, I will find out how much sleep he has had. Then, if I think he's all right, I will have him start at once and telephone you that he is on the way. Otherwise I would rather not give him your message because I know that when he hears of your accident he will wish to start at once, no matter how tired he is."

Plans to Phone Again.

"That seems a good scheme," he said reluctantly. "But on one thing I must insist. He must not know of my accident. I do not wish him to know that I chartered a plane to come after him."

"I will remember," I said, seeing one thing very clearly, that I must drill avoidance of that topic into Noel and Mary.

"And I wish to talk to him before he starts back," he said. "I will telephone again at half after nine. Will you please arrange to answer the telephone? When I ask you, 'Is Noel fit to start?' will you answer, 'yes' or 'no.' Then he will suspect nothing, and I will know what to say."

"I will do that," I returned, resolving that my answer would be an emphatic "no."

As I hung up my own receiver Mother Graham clutched my arm.

"What did he say?" she asked avidly.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

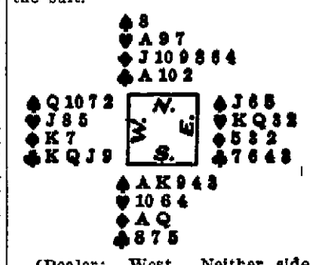
"The Authority on Authorities"

FORGET EXTRA TRICKS

IT PAYS TO forego a finesse which may produce an extra trick if it entails the risk of beating your contract. If the loss of that finesse would mean that the opponents then have an opportunity to make a lead which will knock out a crucial entry from the dummy before its suit is set up, that may kill the entire remainders of the suit.



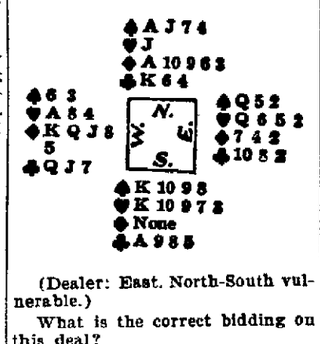
(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

After a pass by West, North started the bidding with 1-Diamond, South called 1-Spade, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps.

West started the defense with the club K and continued with the Q. Declarer won the second round and tried the diamond finesse, which lost to West's K. After cashing his two remaining clubs, West switched to a heart. As the diamond suit was now blocked, declarer's contract was hopeless.

A very different situation would have existed had the declarer won the second club and refused the chance for a diamond finesse. The danger of the heart A being knocked out was of paramount importance to the success of the declarer's contract, so he should have cashed the diamond A and then led the Q, with the hope that the K would be forced to win. It would not have mattered then if the switch was made to hearts, as the diamonds were then cleared and nine tricks could have been cashed before the opponents again gained control.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 1.

THIS SHOULD be a lively and exciting day in both business and personal relations, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. Important change, removal or travel are probable, with much progress and prosperity in store.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year of opportunity for enhancing their prestige and popularity, increasing their fortunes and gaining high objectives in employment, big business as well as in social, romantic and domestic or community importance. It is a time for pushing to the highest of goals, with every forecast of progress and prosperity. A happy new year is assured.

A child born on this day may have more than the proverbial "gold spoon in its mouth." It should have talent, power, efficiency, ambition, with an affectionate, compassionate and friendly nature.

For Sunday, Jan. 2.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a particularly fortunate one for all social, charitable, ecclesiastical and intellectual affairs, with spiritual and cultural aspirations paramount. There will be gifts and good news, merriment and many youthful activities, heightening happiness and community well being.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a generally progressive and prosperous year, with advancement through ambitious and intellectual plans, supported by important persons in mergers, political or diplomatic circles or secret bodies.

A child born on this day may be versatile, capable and brilliant, but subtle. It will be amiable, affectionate and well liked, reaching high honors by its individuality as well as personal popularity.

For Monday, Jan. 3.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of surprising developments annd opportunities for attaining conspicuous place either in the public eye or in some position of trust and authority. It has the support of elders, superiors and those in high places and may involve radical change or travel. Propitious, exciting, adventurous and felicitous conditions prevail in business and in the private life.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of excellent promise for advancement, power, accomplishment and promotion, with a position of renown and high adventure imminent. It may involve radical change and be in the public service.

A child born on this day may be energetic, adventurous, ambitious and bold enough to reach for very high places and attain them through its versatility, executive ability and personal popularity and power.

If talcum powder is rubbed into washable kid and chamois gloves after they have been washed and dried they will have a soft finish.

My Neighbor Says:

For a change, when making your next white cake, add a teaspoon of cinnamon. It gives it a lovely flavor and is quite a change from the regular white cake.

Tack a neat pocket on the back of your ironing board and place a folded pressing cloth in it, then you will never have to hunt for one when pressing heavier garments.

BRIDES OF NEW YEAR HONORED AT PARTIES

Mrs. Reese Concludes Pre-Nuptial Affairs for Miss Frances Thull—Mrs. Pittenger Entertains for Miss Boyd.

TWO young women of Mansfield who will become brides on the first two days of the new year were feted last night at showers given in their honor. Miss Frances Thull, who will become the bride of Edward B. Eagan tomorrow at 3 p. m., was the guest of honor at a shower given by Mrs. Louise Reese at the Susie Janis home last night. Miss Betty Boyd, who will be married to Jack Anthony Sunday was entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles J. Pittenger, 145 Poplar street, yesterday.

Bridge was played with prizes going to Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer, Mrs. Paul Cairns, Miss Marie Thull, and Mrs. Dwight McCullough. This, the final shower for Miss Thull preceding her wedding, was a bathroom shower. Mrs. Reese presented Miss Thull with an electrical gift.

* * *

Mrs. Pittenger entertained four tables of bridge for Miss Boyd last night. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jack McKnight and Mrs. Harry Packham. Mrs. Lamb, of Cleveland, was an out-of-town guest.

Christmas decorations were used throughout the house and at the refreshment table. The guests and hostess all presented the bride-to-be with linen gifts.

* * *

HONOR MRS. PITTMAN.

Members of the Octo club entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. David A Bricker, 58 Sturges avenue, in honor of Mrs. Claude Pittman and her infant daughter, Peggy Ann. Bridge was played with prizes going to Mrs. Richard C. Burgett and Mrs. Anthony Majoy. Mrs. Ernest Majoy, 194½ West Fourth street, will entertain the group Jan. 13.

Women of Moose Arrange Benefit

The regular lodge meeting and the meeting of the officers and committees of Women of the Moose was held recently at the Moose hall. Discussions of the past year's work were held, and reports of relief work done were given.

Plans were made for a benefit bingo party to be given Jan. 19, proceeds from which will be used for welfare work. Committee members in charge are Mrs. Joseph Gresser, Miss Opal Lebo, Miss Helen Sheets, Mrs. Mae Miller, Mrs. Bertha Coleman, and Mrs. Elmira Caugherty.

The next regular lodge meeting will be held Jan. 12 at the lodge hall.

Former Mansfielder Marries On Christmas

A former Mansfield man, Earl N. Bushnell, took as his bride Mrs. Wanda L. Blaser, Cuyahoga Falls, it was announced this morning. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock Christmas morning at the home of Rev. W. L. Neuman, Cuyahoga Falls.

Mrs. Bushnell is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Alspach, Upper Sandusky, and Mr. Bushnell is the son of C. W. Bushnell. Mr. Bushnell is a graduate of Mansfield High school and attended Ohio State university. The couple is at home at 2047 Eighth street, Cuyahoga Falls.

Breakfast-Dance Scheduled For Our Club Tonight

With scores of social events for this evening and tomorrow already announced it looks as if everyone in Mansfield will have some place to go and something to do. Among the important events scheduled for tonight is the Our club dance. This affair will be the second last dance of the 1937-38 social season.

The dance will be a breakfast affair at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, starting at 11 p. m. and lasting until 3 a. m Those on the committee making arrangements are Mr. and Mrs. Joy A. Herbert, chairmen; John F. Bissman, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley G. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. J. Reynolds Hodgson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Hout.

* * *

Those on the committee in charge of arrangements and entertainment are Paul Scatella, Miss Mary Lasusa, Rose Cappadonna, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Mollica, Charles Triscari, Natale Chillemi, Anthony Croce, Miss Josephine Miragliotta, Anthony Cappadonna, Joseph Litezia.

Mary Jane Diemer Honored On Birthday

Mary Jane Diemer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Diemer, 81 West First street, was hostess to a group of schoolmates yesterday afternoon at a party in honor of her eighth birthday. Games and contests were the entertainment of the afternoon.

Prizes were won by Doris Alverson, Patty Miller, Peggy Hess, Nina Jean Stash, and Colleen Stewart. Guests in addition to the prize winners were Ann Manner, Betty Lou Reining, Irene Wilhelm, Kathleen Diemer and Junior McCartney, Galion.

ENTERTAINS AT LUNCH.

Members of the Acorn club were entertained yesterday by Mrs. T. F. Powley at a 1 o'clock luncheon. The afternoon was spent in sewing. The next meeting will be a pot-luck luncheon Jan. 13 at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Stelzer, 33 Buckingham avenue.

Mansfield Girls Wed Christmas Week-End

At the right is the former Miss Jewel Louise Gannaway, who became the bride of Robert R. Ford in a double ring candlelight ceremony Dec. 24 at the Park Avenue Baptist church. In an early Christmas morning ceremony performed at St. Luke's Lutheran church, the former Miss Genevieve Cairns, below, and Charles E. Bahl were united in marriage. Mrs Ford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Gannaway, 254 Marion avenue, and Mrs. Bahl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Cairns, 39 Penn avenue. Mrs. Ford is shown in her wedding gown while Mrs. Bahl is pictured in an informal pose. Mr. and Mrs. Bahl are returning tomorrow from a week's wedding trip. They will be at home in Glen Bec Lane, Ausdale. Mr. and Mrs. Ford took a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. The couple may make their home in Columbus for a while following their return from the east.

YEAR'S EVENTS CLOSE AT SOCIAL SESSIONS

ANY NUMBER of small social clubs met yesterday for their final party of 1937 and to make plans for the first meetings of the coming year. Luncheon meetings were held by the Acorn club and the Thursday Mothers' club, while many other groups spent the afternoon playing cards or other games in a similar social way.

Mrs. John Long, Wayne street, was hostess recently to members of the It-Ul-Do club when they met for cards. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. L. E. Schmid, Mrs. Marvin Grabler and Mrs. Clarence Cook, a guest. The next meeting will be Jan. 12 at Mrs. Grabler's home on Bigelow road.

* * *

MAY-B CLUB MEETS.

Members of the May-B club were entertained yesterday by Mrs. Frances Laughbaum, Canton, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Stanley Balliett, 131 North Bowman street, yesterday. Bunco was played and prizes went to Mrs. Lowell Morgan and Mrs. Hugh Sturgeon. The next meeting will be Jan. 12 with Mrs. Morgan, Bentley avenue, hostess.

* * *

MOTHERS' CLUB MEETS.

The Thursday Mothers' club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. B. B. Keith for a 1 o'clock luncheon with Miss Josephine Keith and Mrs. Robert Keith as guests. Ten members and guests were seated at a long table decorated in red and green. The afternoon was spent socially. Mrs. A. H. Weikert will entertain the club at her home, 91 Poplar street, Feb. 3.

* * *

SUB-DEBS HAVE DISCUSSION.

Miss Frances Hanson, 49 Maple street, was hostess last night to members of the Sub-Deb club. Following a short business meeting there was a discussion of membership qualifications. Miss Willa Hollingshead, 16 Glenwood boulevard, will be hostess Jan. 13. Miss Mary Werner, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Webb Entertains For Piano Students

Those appearing on the program, which honored Mme. Schumann-Heink, were Richard, Danny and Jerry Bishop; Jean and James Curry; Katherine Lannerd; Mary Rhoades; Helen Ann Troll; Vivian Miller; Richard Sparks; and Marion and Donald Given.

Miss Corinne Loury of East Chicago is spending a week in the F. A. Esely home. A week-end guest in the same home was Albert Esely of Mansfield.

BOOK MEETING

LUCAS—Members of the St. Paul's Lutheran church here will hold their annual business meeting Saturday evening, according to Rev. Carl Driscoll, pastor. Preceeding the session there will be a picnic supper for members and friends of the church.

The Pleasant Valley church, south of Lucas, will hold its annual meeting Sunday morning after the church service.

Wearing Clothing To Please Man, Final Fashion Advice

(AP Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK—The most important thing in fashion is dressing to please your man.

He cares about what you wear and can be more irritated than you think by the wrong color or hat. Pleasing him should mean more to you than a listing in "the ten best dressed."

Consult his taste and cater to it. He may know more than you about: (1) how a certain color looks on you, (2) the way a dress and hat look in the back, (3) the effect of both on your while silhouette.

To give you first hand facts on what men like in women's clothes, I canvassed both bachelors and married men in one of America's largest organizations. This is what I learned:

Black's a Favorite.

"Crazy hats" they abhor. The ultra-eccentric headgear some women are wearing this year has set them all muttering.

Most of them like black — if you don't resemble "a walking bearee," and if you lighten it now and then with a jeweled accent or a glowing touch of color. White and blue are their other two favorite hues.

They detest masses of costume jewelry — especially if it clanks. One clip or necklace is enough.

Likes and Dislikes.

They like to have you give the impression that you are soft, warm and nice to touch Clothes on the fluffy side, however, fail to get their applause.

They hate: Eyebrows plucked to a hairline, false eyelashes, heavy mascara eye make-up, rouge that stands up in two, obvious bright spots, crooked stocking seams, open-heeled sandals that plop up and down, white accessories that are not fresh and women who are continually patting their hair and clothes.

They like: Natural looking makeup, bright lipstick (not too heavy and vivid), shining hair, not stiffly set, open-toed sandals with enough support for the foot, high heels (no spikes), trim belts and veils Most of them like enameled finger nails, but prefer the soft rose shades to fire engine red.

There is one last thing to consider in dressing to please your man. Don't wear yourself to a thread trying to appear in a new outfit every time you see him. The average male won't know or care whether you wear a new dress or not.

WED ON HOLIDAY

PERRYSVILLE — Word has been received by friends here of the marriage of Miss Lucis Menuez, of Counter, and Arthur Cramer, of Wooster, which took place on Christmas day in the Lutheran parsonage at Wooster, with Rev. Paul S. Kelly officiating.

Following the wedding ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cramer, in Wooster, for about fifteen guests.

THEATER

NO annual reward exists for animal actors, but Humphrey Bogart plans belated recognition. He's appealing to screen fans to pick the best animal actor of the year and, when the choice is known, he'll present a bronze statuette to the winner. . . . The Clark Gable fan club of Winnipeg sent the star a crate of home-made sweets, one Christmas gift from each of the 1,000 members. . . . Marlene Dietrich and Douglas Fairbanks, jr., are constant companions since her return from Europe. . . .

"She Married an Artist."

The romantic comedy, "She Married An Artist," with John Boles and Luli Deste, Viennese actress, making her American debut, in the leading roles, opens at the Ohio theater on the New Year eve show at 11:30 tonight. The picture will be added to the current attraction, "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry." The story deals with the adventures of a famous French designer, who on a visit to America marries a popular artist. The balance of the film revolves around the efforts of the wife to tame her Broadway husband. Others in the cast are Frances Drake, Alexander D'Arcy and Helen Westley. The Ben Bernie-Walter Winchell production, "Love and Hisses," will open as a regular Saturday mid-night show at 11:30. The picture depicts the battle of wits between the band leader and columnist over the discovery of a new singing star. Simone Simon, Bert Lahr and Joan Davis also are in the cast.

* * *

'Manhattan Merry Go-Round.'

"Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," featuring a cast including Phil Regan, Leo Carrillo, Ann Dvorak, Tamara Geva, James Gleason, Ted Lewis and his orchestra, Cab Calloway and his Cotton club band, and Gene Autry, will afford a part of the entertainment on the screen at the Madison theater's New Year eve show beginning at 12 o'clock tonight. In the film Carrillo is cast as a gangster who forecloses the mortgage on a phonograph record company. The real actions begins when his henchmen sent to strong-arm talent, bring in jugglers, magicians and trained dogs. The film will be added to "Angel," with Marlene Dietrich, Herbert Marshall and Melvyn Douglas, for the midnight program. A Western drama, "The Badman of Brimstone," starring Wallace Berry, opens as the Sunday feature. The picture, which was filmed in the Bryce National park, will have Virginia Bruce, Joseph Calleia, Lewis Stone and Guy Kibbee in the supporting roles.

"Danger Patrol."

The lives of the men who make and transport the world's most treacherous explosives, nitro-glycerine, form the background of "Danger Patrol," opening at the Majestic theater today. Harry Carey, Sally Eilers and Joan Beal head the cast. Carey plays the role of an old-timer who teaches Beal the trade and complications arise when the latter falls in love with Carey's daughter. The second feature is "Born to the West," the screen adaptation of Zane Grey's western. John Wayne, Marsha Hunt and John Mack Brown have the leading roles. The two shows will be presented at a special late performance New Year eve at 11 p. m. Eddie Cantor in "Strike Me Pink," and "Love On Toast," with Franklin Pangborn, will make up the twin bill for Sunday.

* * *

Bulldog Drummond Back.

John Barrymore and John Howard are cast in the top roles of "Bulldog Drummond Comes Back," opening at the Ritz theater today. The plot is built about the kidnaping of Drummond's fiancee by a girl who is out to revenge herself for Drummond's previous strategy in bringing her husband to the gallows. Gene Autry and Polly Rowles in the western film, "Springtime in the Rockies," completes the double feature attraction through Saturday. "Underworld," featuring an all-colored cast including the Pope sisters, the famous Kit Kat club orchestra and the Six Sizzlers, will be shown as a special New Year eve picture starting at 11:30 tonight. The film also will be presented at 11:30 Saturday night. Jack Benny in "Artists and Models," will open at the theater Sunday.

Today's Recipes.

PLUM PUDDING — One-half pound beef suet, one cup sugar, two tablespoons molasses, one cup raisins, one cup currants, one-half pound mixed candied peel, one cup milk, one teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and allspice, a little nutmeg, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, flour to make a stiff batter. Mix well together and boil in floured pudding bag for three hours, or steam for the same length of time. This recipe will serve six, and may be elaborated by the addition of other fruits such as dates, figs, cherries, pineapple, etc., and nuts.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"OH! MR. VERITZEN!" I fairly cooed over the telephone. "I am so glad to hear from you. We were so afraid that you would be ill from the effects of that accident. But we didn't dare telephone for fear you would be sleeping and they would disturb you."

Beside me, eagerly listening, I was conscious of Mother Graham's grimly saturnine face, with a mocking smile just touching the corners of her lips. I remembered her words of a moment before, "Pity he didn't break a leg when that airplane came down."

"Your solicitude is very gratifying," he said, and I knew that even his vanity was not preventing him from realizing something of the true state of my feelings toward him. "I am feeling no ill effects at all. Have Noel and Mary returned yet?"

"Not yet," I said stoutly.

"Nothing."

Not Very Convincing.

"Aren't you worried? Isn't that unlike them?" His voice expressed strong disbelief in my statement.

"I might be, ordinarily," I said, "but they knew that the car could not possibly be repaired before tonight.

"You expect them back tonight, I believe," he said after a pause.

"Oh yes, about nine o'clock. The garage has promised the car by then."

"Nine o'clock!" he echoed. "Are there no mechanics down there?"

Wants Noel to Start.

"It is the summer season, you know," I said placatingly. "Every garage is rushed with work."

"How much sleep has Noel had?"

"I don't know," I said. He wasn't here last night, but these are gorgeous moonlight nights. I imagine they are not wasting any too much time in slumber."

"I should like to have him start back tonight," he said, "but, of course, I do not wish him to risk falling asleep at the wheel, as he will be traveling alone."

"Why not leave it this way?" I said. "As soon as they return, I will find out how much sleep he has had. Then, if I think he's all right, I will have him start at once and telephone you that he is on the way. Otherwise I would rather not give him your message because I know that when he hears of your accident he will wish to start at once, no matter how tired he is."

Plans to Phone Again.

"That seems a good scheme," he said reluctantly. "But on one thing I must insist. He must not know of my accident. I do not wish him to know that I chartered a plane to come after him."

"I will remember," I said, seeing one thing very clearly, that I must drill avoidance of that topic into Noel and Mary.

"And I wish to talk to him before he starts back," he said. "I will telephone again at half after nine. Will you please arrange to answer the telephone? When I ask you, 'Is Noel fit to start?' will you answer, 'yes' or 'no.' Then he will suspect nothing, and I will know what to say."

"I will do that," I returned, resolving that my answer would be an emphatic "no."

As I hung up my own receiver Mother Graham clutched my arm.

"What did he say?" she asked avidly.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

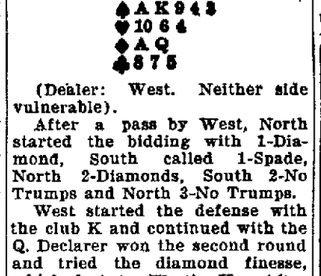
"The Authority on Authorities"

FORGET EXTRA TRICKS

IT PAYS TO forego a finesse which may produce an extra trick if it entails the risk of beating your contract. If the loss of that finesse would mean that the opponents then have an opportunity to make a lead which will knock out a crucial entry from the dummy before its suit is set up, that may kill the entire remainders of the suit.



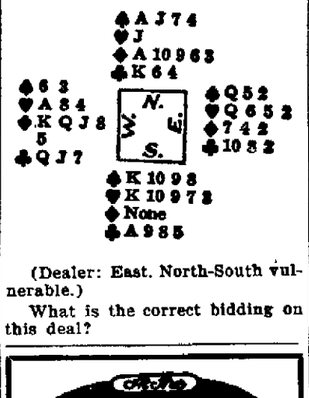
(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

After a pass by West, North started the bidding with 1-Diamond, South called 1-Spade, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps.

West started the defense with the club K and continued with the Q. Declarer won the second round and tried the diamond finesse, which lost to West's K. After cashing his two remaining clubs, West switched to a heart. As the diamond suit was now blocked, declarer's contract was hopeless.

A very different situation would have existed had the declarer won the second club and refused the chance for a diamond finesse. The danger of the heart A being knocked out was of paramount importance to the success of the declarer's contract, so he should have cashed the diamond A and then led the Q, with the hope that the K would be forced to win. It would not have mattered then if the switch was made to hearts, as the diamonds were then cleared and nine tricks could have been cashed before the opponents again gained control.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 1.

THIS SHOULD be a lively and exciting day in both business and personal relations, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. Important change, removal or travel are probable, with much progress and prosperity in store.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year of opportunity for enhancing their prestige and popularity, increasing their fortunes and gaining high objectives in employment, big business as well as in social, romantic and domestic or community importance. It is a time for pushing to the highest of goals, with every forecast of progress and prosperity. A happy new year is assured.

A child born on this day may have more than the proverbial "gold spoon in its mouth." It should have talent, power, efficiency, ambition, with an affectionate, compassionate and friendly nature.

For Sunday, Jan. 2.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a particularly fortunate one for all social, charitable, ecclesiastical and intellectual affairs, with spiritual and cultural aspirations paramount. There will be gifts and good news, merriment and many youthful activities, heightening happiness and community well being.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a generally progressive and prosperous year, with advancement through ambitious and intellectual plans, supported by important persons in mergers, political or diplomatic circles or secret bodies.

A child born on this day may be versatile, capable and brilliant, but subtle. It will be amiable, affectionate and well liked, reaching high honors by its individuality as well as personal popularity.

For Monday, Jan. 3.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of surprising developments and opportunities for attaining conspicuous place either in the public eye or in some position of trust and authority. It has the support of elders, superiors and those in high places and may involve radical change or travel. Propitious, exciting, adventurous and felicitous conditions prevail in business and in the private life.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of excellent promise for advancement, power, accomplishment and promotion, with a position of renown and high adventure imminent. It may involve radical change and be in the public service.

A child born on this day may be energetic, adventurous, ambitious and bold enough to reach for very high places and attain them through its versatility, executive ability and personal popularity and power.

If talcum powder is rubbed into washable kid and chamois gloves after they have been washed and dried they will have a soft finish.

My Neighbor Says:

For a change, when making your next white cake, add a teaspoon of cinnamon. It gives it a lovely flavor and is quite a change from the regular white cake.

Tack a neat pocket on the back of your ironing board and place a folded pressing cloth in it, then you will never have to hunt for one when pressing heavier garments.
